Attempt Robbery At Port Ewen

Authorities Investigating Several Attempts at Robbery Wednesday Night—Revolver Fired Through Window Thursday Night. The village authorities are investigating several attempts at burglary at Port Ewen some time Wednesday night. Thursday night someone fired a revolver bullet through the plate glass window of Jump's general store. The public library was visited and attempts made to enter through the door, which were unsuccessful. The thieves then got in through a rear window and broke open a desk in the library and got about 40 cents in change. They lost, however, a watch which was found on the ground outside the building the next morning, evidently having dropped one of the thieves' pockets. At Alexander Crook's confectionery store they broke the glass in the front door near the lock, expecting to find the key to the door in the lock inside the store. It was not in the lock, however, and they gave up the attempt to enter. At Jump's garage entrance was obtained and some auto tools stolen. They were found later in the rear of the new post-office building. An attempt was also made to enter Reginald Van Leuven's barber shop where a window was broken. The thieves were evidently frightened away before obtaining entrance. At the Dewdrop Inn the thieves destroyed a number of Peter Schuyler's cigars by breaking them in half and throwing them on the floor. It is said they also got in the gas station nearby and obtained a small amount of money.

Nathan S. Peet, Veteran, Dead

Nathan S. Peet died at his home in Pine Hill Friday morning, May 2, at 10 o'clock, aged 82 years. Mr. Peet has been in failing health during the past two years, during which time he suffered from heart disease that caused his death. He was born in the town of Woodstock August 24, 1842, and was one of a large family of children. Being the oldest, he developed upon him early in life to assist in caring for his younger brothers and sisters. He learned the trade of blacksmith and had lived in different parts of eastern Delaware and northern Ulster. During the gloomy days of the Civil War he responded to his country's call and enlisted in the 20th Regiment, N. Y. Volunteers. He fought in the battle of Gettysburg and other historic engagements of that war. Mr. Peet had a strong inclination for fraternal matters and was a member of Margaretville Lodge, No. 387, F. & A. M., for sixty years, and was the oldest member of that lodge. He was one of the oldest members of Phoenixia Odd Fellows' lodge, and was a member of Pratt Post, No. 17, G. A. R., of Kingston, N. Y. Mr. Peet had a genial and humorous temperament and was known to a wide circle of friends throughout Ulster and Delaware counties. The funeral was held from his Pine Hill residence Monday, May 5, and more people were in attendance than at any other funeral ever held in the village. The sermon was preached by the Rev. R. L. Mauter, of the Methodist Church, and the burial was conducted according to the Masonic rites. Nearly one hundred Masons participated in the services. A profusion of cut flowers, pillars and wreaths were given by friends and the following organizations: The Ladies' Aid Society of the Pine Hill Methodist Church, Margaretville Masonic Lodge, No. 387, Phoenixia Lodge of Odd Fellows, Pratt Post, No. 17, G. A. R., employees Oneonta Division, American Railway Express Co., employees Poughkeepsie Division, Cadillac Service Station. Mr. Peet leaves a wife and nine children, Sory of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Sadie Beehler of Middletown, Mrs. J. J. Reppner of Lenox, Mass., Mrs. Harry Jansh of Dumont, N. J., William Peet of Oneonta, N. Equipping "Polo Grounds" So 2,500 Can Sit While Colonials Trim Visitors

The directors of the Kingston Fair Grounds, Inc., have contracted for the building of additional bleachers at the ball park to seat 600. They have also arranged for 50 benches with a seating capacity of 350 and have also purchased 50 benches with a capacity of 350. When completed this will give a total seating capacity of 2,500 at the ball park, making it one of the largest in seating capacity along the river. Workmen are now at work placing the piers and the work will be completed in time for the Decoration Day crowd. Last season the capacity of the stands was taxed on Sundays and at the major league clubs standing room was at a premium. In anticipation of games with the major leaguers this season it was deemed necessary to provide additional seating room to take care of the crowds at the local "Polo grounds."

Y.M.C.A. Annual Banquet Monday

Everything is being made ready for a successful annual banquet at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Monday, May 12, at 6:15 p. m. The Women's Auxiliary has planned to serve chicken and this has already attracted the attention of some as places are now being reserved in goodly number. The regular business of the evening will take but a short time and those who attend will greatly enjoy the principal speaker of the evening, Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis of New York City has been on the American lecture platform for some years and has met with excellent success. He is a man of exceptional personality and his address will be full of interest and information. Those who recently heard William Knowles Cooper will find another good time in store in Commissioner Wallis's address. Special music for the occasion is being arranged.

Kiwanis Club Weekly Luncheon

The Kiwanis Club closed its attendance contest which has been running for the last ten weeks at the luncheon Thursday but a final report could not be made as the club statistician didn't have the figures yet on the meeting last week. This meeting was held at the Golden Rule inn in conjunction with the Poughkeepsie club, which club was responsible for the evening's entertainment program. The entertainment was so good that the team captains forgot to count noses for the attendance report. A post-mortem count is now being made, but it is not expected the club will stand as high among the clubs of the state as it did last year when it was first in its class.

At Thursday's meeting Mr. Johnson explained the hotel promotion now going on here as he has before other organizations. The Kiwanis Club is solidly for the hotel and most of its members are enrolled in the stock selling organization. National Music Week was observed through the medium of an after-dinner concert by Paul Zucca with what looked like a banjo, Miss Marie Farrell at the piano and Charles Whittaker with a saxophone that possessed all the weird but appealing tones peculiar to that type of instrument. This trio was listened to with more attentiveness than the club ever gives anything outside of a good speaker and there was loud and prolonged applause after each number. William Kukuk donated the attendance prize which was carried away by Frank Brown. William C. Alexander, state lieutenant governor of Kiwanis, will address the club on May 15.

NOT A DROP OF WATSON HOLLOW OIL TO ESCAPE

W. H. Burhans Consulted As To Best Place To Tap It. West Hurley, May 9.—Harry W. Wiley spent one evening and the following day this week in consultation with William H. Burhans of West Hurley relative to making the location for the first test well to be drilled in Watson Hollow. Mr. Wiley had just returned from the west, where he had been making arrangements for a drilling outfit and storage tanks. These tanks to be used in addition to the deep earthen tanks which they will use for safety as Mr. Wiley does not intend to take any chances on allowing one drop of oil to escape. In addition to the oil land in Watson Hollow, Mr. Wiley has been very fortunate in securing some valuable mineral claims which he has assigned to the company.

This morning Judge Harry E. Schirick in police court sentenced Charles to ninety days in the Albany Penitentiary. Charles was taken to Albany later in the day by Policeman Soper.

Jurors Excused Until Monday And Justice Rosch Takes Press Of Farm Work Into Consideration. After considerable argument the jury which heard the evidence in the action brought in supreme court by William J. Schwalbach against Morris Kirschenbaum, a negligence action, brought in a verdict in the sum of $236.35 for plaintiff. The case was submitted to the jury at 11 o'clock and after considerable argument in the jury room the jury was taken out for lunch and shortly after arrived at a decision. Court convened at 2 o'clock and the verdict taken by Judge Rosch. Schwalbach sued to recover damages to his Nash taxi which he claimed was struck by defendant's Cleveland sedan at the entrance to the Rondout Creek Bridge on April 15, 1921. He also claimed damages for loss of use. The amount of the verdict was the amount of the bill for repairs. N. H. Fessenden appeared for plaintiff and Gratian B. Shultz for defendant. After the verdict had been taken Judge Rosch excused the jurors until Monday afternoon, informing them that if they served next week any who might wish to be excused after that time would be excused. The court stated that he realized it was a difficult thing for jurors, especially farmers, to give a great deal of time to jury duty at this season of the year.

Wars and Rumors of Wars Among French, Spanish and Turks; Others Gesturing

Fighting and threats of hostilities were reported from various parts of Europe, Asia and Africa today. According to a report printed by the London Daily Express both Russia and Roumania are making warlike preparations along the Russo-Roumanian frontier by massing troops. These nations have long engaged in a territory dispute. Fighting between French gendarmes and Turks is again reported from the Syrian frontier, on the edge of the Syrian district under French mandate. Spanish forces in Morocco have been engaged in a two day offensive against the Riff tribesmen in the Beni Saad sector of the battle front. The tribesmen's losses were put at 300. Communists are active all over Germany. They have precipitated strikes of half a million men and fears that, under the urging of Russia, they may attempt to wage war against the existing order of things.

First Division Salesmen Formed

Headed by George E. Lowe to Push Hotel Stock Sales—5,000 Booklets Sent Prospective Buyers. Announcement of the formation of the first division of the sales organization of the new hotel project was made today at the executive committee luncheon. The division is "C" and is under the leadership of George E. Lowe, manager. The committee went through with the routine business preparatory to the stock-selling campaign which will be put on in the near future. Five thousand booklets containing details of the new hotel, a statement from the chairman of the executive committee, John H. Gregory, telling how Kingston needs a new hotel; that this is an ideal convention city and will draw many more conventions with a new hotel, are being sent out from the campaign headquarters to people throughout the city. The location of the proposed new hotel is given in detail. It also sets forth the need of a tourist and commercial hotel; that it is a civic enterprise, and that modern hotels do pay.

The following are those of the first division who have agreed to assist in the campaign: George E. Lowe, manager; Chester H. Baltz, group manager; and Robin Stiele, Zeph Rosas, Chester R. Hall, C. E. Wonderly, Frank DuFon, Fred Rosas, T. J. Morrissey, E. N. Pallen and C. K. Wood. J. I. Gifford, group manager, and Edward J. DuBois, Roland T. Feller, Charles C. Rappleyea, I. V. D. Warren, George S. Warren, J. J. Morgan, F. J. Hyatt, Walter S. Babcock and H. C. Sammons. Ernest Hicks, group manager, and Samuel Seidler, William Dugan, F. L. Brown, Emil Boossnick, W. H. Niles, Wilmer S. Nickerson, W. W. Brady, Jr., Louis Hays, Pearl Carey, Charles H. Lasher, group manager, R. F. Chiles, H. H. Skinner, Paul Zucca, Harry Darnow, N. W. Snyder, A. E. Jansky, Malford Stowe, E. M. Bonestell, W. F. Henkel and W. A. Van Valkenburgh.

At the executive committee meeting today the following reasons were given out as to why and why people should invest in this new and modern hotel: "First of all, it must be remembered that this new hotel is not to be placed in the same category as 'Wildcat' investment schemes. The investment will be represented by brick, steel, concrete and good will, all on one of the very best locations in the heart of Kingston to meet the greatest need that Kingston has. One of the requisites to the success of any venture, whether it be a manufacturing program or a personal service program, is that there be a market for the output. In Kingston there is already a market for the product of our new hotel, the product that is measured by much needed modern hotel facilities and accommodations in Kingston. In answering the question of 'Who should invest,' let us list the different groups as follows: Property Owners. Every new and modern building erected in Kingston has its direct bearing upon property values. A new and modern hotel, perhaps more than any other enterprise at the present time, will favorably affect our city. Business and Professional Men. Every man in active business in Kingston today will be a direct beneficiary through the increased circulation of money in Kingston as a result of the erection of this new hotel. Men and Women. Who are looking for a good, sound investment. To these people our new and modern hotel means a good opportunity. Judging from the financial success of modern hotels in other cities, it is safe to predict that Kingston's new hotel will be a good investment, and that a good dividend can be assured. Everyone. For all those who want to see Kingston prosper and take their place among the leaders of cities of her class in this state, this is a practical business investment and a sure way to 'Make Kingston Grow.' Kingston grows. Kingston meets emergencies, as has been shown by her past. Let us meet this one now. Remember. This is strictly an investment proposition in a Kingston enterprise, to be managed by Kingston business men."

NEWBURGH JURY RETURNS A $10,000 VERDICT.

After remaining out less than a quarter of an hour, a jury in supreme court in Newburgh Wednesday afternoon rendered a verdict of $10,000 damages in the case of Patrick J. Sexton against George Deima. The plaintiff, residing at 370 South street, Newburgh, and employed as a flagman on the West Shore Railroad, sued the defendant, proprietor of a taxicab business at 15 Chambers street, Newburgh, for $25,000 for the seduction in August, 1919, of his daughter, Anna, who on September 29, 1920, in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, gave birth to a boy of whom she says Deima is the father.

Women Can Be Ordained

To Methodist Episcopal Ministry. Decides General Conference—National Center at Washington Proposed. By Telegram to The Freeman. Springfield, Mass., May 9.—Methodist women today won a great victory when the general conference of the church, now in session here, granted them the right to be ordained as pastors of the Methodist Church. They are given the same rights and authority as men except that they will not have full conference relationship and will not be permitted to enter the itinerant ministry.

Springfield, Mass., May 9.—Establishment at the national capital of a religious and education center for world wide Methodism is advocated by the Rev. Dr. William Frazer McDowell, bishop of the Washington area. He has laid before the Methodist general conference, now in session here, a recommendation that the first step be taken in the gift of $10,000,000 to the American University at Washington to enable it to take its place as the center of learning for the entire church. The university has the reputation for enlargement on the scale recommended by the bishop. Following close upon the enlargement in scope of the work of the university would come the erection of a great cathedral equal to, if not larger than the one being erected at Washington by the Protestant Episcopal Church at a cost of $10,000,000. The Methodist building which was recently erected on a site facing the capital grounds at a cost of over $500,000 houses many of the offices of the church boards. The plan submitted by Bishop McDowell would locate many other of the board offices in that city. The Rev. Dr. Abram W. Harris of the Maine Conference, corresponding secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, recommended to the conference today the reorganization of such boards. The Rev. Harris favors simplifying the plan of organization by which the work of all the present branches would be consolidated under four boards having respectively the oversight of foreign missions, home missions, education and parish activities. He asks to have a commission named to investigate the plan. Names of the Rev. Dr. John R. Edwards of Washington, D. C., the Rev. Dr. Raymond J. Wade of Chicago, Illinois and the Rev. Dr. Merton S. Rice of Detroit, Michigan, are mentioned among leaders in the Methodist general conference as virtually certain of election as bishops. It is expected there will be five or more vacancies to be filled. A letter has been received at the office of the secretary of the Methodist general conference from Nell Carey (Billie) Tichenor, an actress of New York city, asking that the amusement ban of the church be lifted by the conference. She is a member of the Methodist Church South, which permits amusements. Actors and actresses are not permitted to join the Northern branch of the church on account of the amusement ban. The communication from Miss Carey will go to the committee on state of the church together with other requests for removing the ban. Judge Henry Wade Rogers, of New York, chairman of the judiciary committee gave to the general conference an interpretation of the church law relating to divorce. The committee rules that a member of the conference may be expelled from the ministry for contracting a marriage if he is a divorced man, on grounds other than adultery. Also, a minister may be expelled for contracting a marriage with a woman divorced on grounds other than adultery. The committee on judiciary states that the rules of the church expressly prohibits divorce except on the grounds specified.

Scotland May Have Home Rule

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, May 9.—Home rule for Scotland was before Parliament today. The House of Commons will devote two days debating a measure conferring self government upon Scotland which has been under British rule since 1603 when the Scottish and English crowns were united by the accession of James VI to the throne. Thirteen Scottish Liberals and 23 Scottish Liberals are supporting the home rule bill.

"Red" Agitators Alarm Germans

500,000 Men Pulled Out on Strike Being Urged to Violence by Communist Leaders. Berlin, May 9.—There has been a dangerous spread of Communist strikes in the Ruhr, Silesia and Saxony during the past 24 hours and it was estimated today that more than 500,000 men, mostly coal miners, are idle. Government officials fear that the Reds will openly attempt to seize control of the localities where the troubles prevail. Communist agitators are active in the Ruhr and elsewhere. German industrialists are frightened over the possibility of seizure of the Ruhr mines by the French if coal deliveries cease, owing to the strike. Ninety-two per cent of the Ruhr coal mines are idle. The exceptions are those covered by the so-called "mildew agreements" between German industrialists and the French. Efforts by the "loyal" trade unions to prevent the spread of the strike failed. The government is trying to bring miners and operators to the conference table. The operators are confident the strike will break down through lack of funds. They said it is kept up only through "Communist loot."

Strike leaders say the walkout resulted from the effort of the government to lengthen the working shifts from seven to eight hours. There is every indication, however, that the Communists used this merely as a pretext. Flushed with unexpected success in the general election they evidently sought to make an exhibition of their industrial strength, following their political victory. Rote Famine ("The Red Flag") organ of the Communists, calls the strike movement the beginning of a new struggle in Germany. The republic at present is torn by struggling political groups. On one hand the powerful Nationalist-Monarchist bloc is working for restoration of the Empire. On the opposite side the communists are striving for a Soviet. In between are the Socialists and other moderate who are trying to save the Republic.

Berdichefsky Sues U. & D. R. R.

Justice William B. Carswell at special term, Supreme Court, Kings county, has granted a motion made by the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company for the removal of the place of trial of an action brought by Isidore Berdichefsky, of Brooklyn, against the railroad company. The action grows out of shipments of cream and cheese from Delaware county to New York and covers a period of twenty-eight days. The complaint sets up twenty-eight separate causes of action. The railroad in its application for the removal of the case from Kings county to Delaware county, named forty-four witnesses whose convenience would be promoted by a change, and the plaintiff named thirty odd witnesses. The motion was sharply contested, and the court after hearing argument granted plaintiff leave to file additional memoranda, and in deciding the motion wrote an opinion in which it was stated that considering all the objections of the plaintiff and all of the questions involved in the application the court concluded that the railroad company had made out a case and that the convenience of witnesses would be best subserved by the removal of the action and an order was made accordingly. The motion was argued by H. H. Flemming for the railroad company and by Seymour Bluestone, of New York city, for the plaintiff.

CAMEL CHATTER

"I love to chew
When there's nothing to do.
When there's something to do,
I still love to chew."

So said Mrs. Camel as she grinned a camel's grin. And her mate and her young son both agreed with her.

"It is time you should be going to bed, son," Mr. Camel said.

"The visitors have left the zoo long ago and we have shown them how beautiful we are. Our shaggy hair looks its best in the cold weather.

"In the summer time we shed our hair and we look quite untidy. It is in the summer time that we have many visitors and the keepers wish we looked our best in the summer time.

"But it is not our way.

"Besides it would make the people concerned if they thought the camels fussed to look their best for them.

"Of course you were very handsome this summer, Camel son. Your hair was so soft and silky and your little humps so soft, too. Everyone admired you, as well they might.

"How proud I was," Mrs. Camel said. "The streets are filled with children and so are schoolhouses and homes, too, I believe, but the zoo is not filled with dear little camels. They're a rare and wonderful sight.

"In fact you're very unusual, for camel babies do not stand zoo life well and they do not live to be very old. You, my darling, are one of the oldest baby camels in any zoo, I believe—at least in this part of the world.

"They are all taking such care of you and are hoping you will like zoo life just as your mother hopes you will. They are very good to you and why shouldn't they be? Dear, beautiful Camel that you are.

"Your mother and father came from Asia and you take after us with your two dear little humps showing you are a Bactrian camel.

"Two humps are so distinguished. Just twice as distinguished as only having one hump.

"But I was talking about school-houses being filled with children.

"How much more interesting schools would be if there were little camels to be seen there. And little boys and

"Take a dash of water cold,
And a little leaven of prayer,
A little bit of sunshine gold
Dissolved in morning air;
Add to your meal some matrimony
And a thought for kith and kin;
And then as a prime ingredient,
A plenty of work thrown in;
But spice it all with the essence
Of love.

And a little whiff of play;
Let a wise old book and a glance
Alone
Complete a well spent day."

MORE THINGS TO EAT

Rarebits are dishes quick to prepare and make a hot dish which most people like.

Mexican Rarebit.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter, in it cook one green pepper cut into squares. When softened a little add one pound of common cheese, cut into small bits and stir constantly until melted; add two-thirds of a cupful of fresh or canned corn, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, two eggs well beaten and two-thirds of a cupful of tomato. Stir and cook until smooth and hot blend; when thoroughly hot serve on rounds of toast, toasted on one side.

Berry Cake.—Butter the inside of a baking dish and fill for one-half inch with buttered crumbs, toast. Fill the dish with canned or fresh fruit, adding sugar if needed. Blueberries are especially good. Bake in a moderate oven for three-quarters of an hour. Serve ice cold with whipped cream or with lemon gelatin whipped until foamy, sweetened and chilled.

Kimmel Torte.—Beat two eggs until light, add one cupful of sugar, six tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, mixed with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one cupful each of dates and nuts all well chopped. Mix well and bake in a shallow pan in a slow oven for three-quarters of an hour. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Cabbage Salad.—Shred a hard head of cabbage very fine, put into cold water to become crisp. Just before serving drain and dry well and dress with thick sweetened cream, sugar, salt and a dash of vinegar. Some like the cabbage bruised with a potato masher before adding the dressing.

Orange Cream.—Whip one-half cupful of cream, add orange extract and a little of the carefully prepared fruit. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Two Humps Are So Distinguished.

Little girls would never be afraid that they'd have to wear the dunce cap for the duncest brain would be better than a camel's brain.

"And we wouldn't mind being the dunces. Not in the least.

"We would be happy in the schoolhouses. We would look at the lesson books and we wouldn't know our lessons, and we wouldn't care!

"Some feel badly when they don't know their lessons. They are ashamed or they are afraid or they hate to appear stupid.

"But we wouldn't feel any of those things.

"What do we care about many brains or much brain when we have four legs and two humps and a funny two-part mouth each?

"We have enough to satisfy any creature."

"We have, my dear," said Mr. Camel. "We most certainly have. At least to satisfy us and we are the ones to satisfy."

The little Camel grinned.

And as they talked they chewed.

"But you must go to sleep now, as your daddy has just said," Mrs. Camel continued. "We will sit up and chew and chatter a little longer as older creatures should do.

"We will talk a little of the old days in Asia—the days of long ago when we weren't stared at because of our strange, wonderful looks.

"Good-night, son."

"Good-night, Mother Camel. Good-night, Daddy Camel."

"Good-night son." And as the Camel son closed his eyes his mother and father said to each other:

"We have every reason to be very proud of our son."

A Game We All Play

Two small boys were puzzling their brains to invent a new game. At last one of them said, eagerly: "I know, Billy, let's see who can make the ugliest face."

"Aw, go on!" was the reply. "Look what a start you've got!"—Pathfinder.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 9, 1924.

Boss Brennan of Illinois is stepping into the vacant shoes of the late Boss Murphy of New York, and is likely to wield a greater influence in the national Democratic party than Murphy ever commanded. Brennan is the nemesis of McAdoo, and the latter is viewing the change in party control with the same consternation with which he heard Mr. Doherty publish the details of his employment to influence President Wilson in favor of the oil man. If there was any lingering life left in the McAdoo boom after the Doherty disclosures it was effectively extinguished by the death of Murphy and the accession of Brennan.

The Senate resolution directing the heads of departments to inform the Senate what former cabinet officers and Congressmen have practiced before them has brought some interesting information. Mr. McAdoo was active in pressing claims against the Government before the Treasury Department, the Navy Department, and the Shipping Board. Former Secretary of State Colby urged a claim against the Shipping Board, of which he was a member before appointment to the cabinet. A number of former Senators and Representatives have been named, practically all of them being Democrats. It is quite apparent from the reports in response to the resolution that many members of the Wilson Administration and of the Democratic Congress read the handwriting on the wall in 1920 and prepared to utilize their special knowledge of government affairs in feathering their future nests.

A CONVICT'S DAY IN COURT

It has been shown in Philadelphia that even a felon condemned by the law to prison can successfully appeal to the law for protection. In the Common Pleas Court the other day a convict declared on oath that he had been beaten most brutally by the second deputy warden of the Eastern Penitentiary and was answered by an unqualified denial. It was a question of veracity between a convict and a prison officer, and yet the Judge bluntly asked "Who is lying?" After ten minutes of deliberation the jury decided that the deputy warden was the liar, and found him guilty both of assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery. Evidently the convict, though handicapped by his stripes, carried conviction as well as excited pity.

In his charge to the Jury Judge Henry said: "The days of cruel punishment are past. It will not be long before the State legislature does away with the Klondike and other forms of barbarous punishment." It is true that brutality to prison inmates has been checked, but it is even more important that the time has come when a supposedly defenseless convict may resent unduly severe usage, have his day in court and get justice. Humanity now unites with the law for the protection of the weak, even though in a felon's stripes.

NINE YEARS FOR NOTHING

After a lapse of nine years, a man indicted for second degree murder in the District of Columbia was brought to trial—and acquitted in a few minutes. In the local jail of the district languish convicted first degree murderers whose crimes were committed four or five years ago, but who, on one pretext or another, have thus far escaped the penalty provided by law. Recently several hundred liquor cases pending in the district courts were nolle prossed because the prolonged delay in bringing them to trial had resulted in the loss of witnesses necessary to a conviction. The efforts of the police in the latter case were wholly futile.

This is the situation in Washington, the capital of the Nation, but conditions are about the same throughout the country. In Chicago the father of a murdered son attended court ten times to see justice meted out to the murderer. Each time the case was continued, until finally the father took the law into his own hands and shot the killer of his boy. Yet we are astonished at the prevalence of crime and marvel at the remarkable murder record of our large cities as compared with Great Britain where justice is swift and sure. The American Bar Association has a committee engaged in working out a plan for avoiding the law's delays. All success to their efforts is high time that the people had a demonstration of the consequences that should attend closely on the commission of every crime.

FALSE PLEURISY.

As a student I remember distinctly a case where the patient thought she had pleurisy.

There was a severe burning pain on the left side of her chest near the heart, which seemed to get much worse if she took a long breath.

One physician came in and after listening carefully with his stethoscope and taking the temperature, declared that it was not pleurisy.

The patient was so annoyed that she dismissed him and called another. He likewise diagnosed it as not being pleurisy. He was also dismissed. The third physician was called and after the patient related her symptoms, and how it had been necessary to dismiss the two previous physicians, he proceeded to examine her.

Asking her to take a long breath and inquiring whether that increased the pain, the patient said that it did.

"That is certainly like pleurisy," he said.

He then asked her to cough and as she stated that coughing increased the pain, he again said:

"That is also like pleurisy."

He said no more, applied the old-fashioned mustard plaster, the patient was well in two or three days.

And he was considered a clever physician.

In recounting the case to a class of students later he said:

"Now this woman did not have pleurisy, and I didn't say she did have it. She had what is known as pleurodynia or false pleurisy."

This is simply a painful affection of the muscles of the chest. It might be anywhere else in the body where there is muscle, and that is practically everywhere.

It was useless to argue with her. She was in pain, and knowing a little about pleurisy, she had her mind made up that pleurisy was her trouble.

My stethoscope revealed no "rubbing" as in pleurisy, and my thermometer showed no temperature.

Without being called upon to give a diagnosis, I proceeded to treat the case as you would treat muscular pain anywhere, that is by the application of heat. And so if you have a pain over the heart or in the chest that acts as did the pain mentioned above, simply apply heat.

In true pleurisy absolute rest of the part is indicated and the patient warned not to cough if at all possible.

WHY

Danish Eggs Are Popular With the English People.

An examination made not long ago in London disclosed the fact that the largest eggs sold there came from Denmark. The Danish eggs, it appears, are the most popular as well as the heaviest. The great majority of them weigh more than two and one-half ounces. The average American egg has been found to weigh two and two-sevenths ounces. The lightest Danish eggs weigh as much as the heaviest French eggs. This investigation classified the eggs as to country only. Some years ago American observations were taken as to breeds of hens. The North Carolina experiment station recorded the weight of eggs that several hens of well-known breeds laid during a period of six months. It was found that the largest eggs were produced by light Brahmas, the average weight being two and one-half ounces. Faint eggs did not exceed two ounces in weight. Eggs from Black Langshans and Barred Plymouth Rocks weighed two and one-eighth ounces each, while the eggs of the Single-Comb Brown Leghorn, late-hatched Plymouth Rock, White Wyandotte and Buff Cochins all weighed less than two ounces each.—Indianapolis News.

Why Writers Allude to the "Halcyon Days"

Classical writings have many allusions to the kingfisher or halcyon, and it was believed the bird was so favored by the gods that during the two weeks preceding winter solstice, when the kingfisher was hatching her young, there prevailed a great calm and the sea (which was supposed to be floating serenely on the sea) should be disturbed. Those were the halcyon days.

There was also a superstition that a dead kingfisher suspended by the bill will always turn its breast in the direction whence the wind blows, and a weather vane of this sort was often hung in the chimney corner.

Sir Thomas Browne, in his book, "Enquiry Into Vulgar Errors" (1612), actually made a number of experiments to test this belief, even hanging two separate birds in the same room together, and finally suspending them in "large and spacious glasses closely stopp'd," until he proved to his complete satisfaction that the long current superstition was unworthy of belief.—Detroit News.

Why Do the British Think Cowboys Are Too Rough

Our dear cousins in England are professing to be much shocked by the way in which cattle are handled by certain cowboys, real or pretended, who are illustrating our Wild West in London by a daily exhibition which they call a "rodeo."

The spectacles presented in these shows do seem to the sensitive to have elements of cruelty, and it hardly can be questioned that the steers dislike the treatment which they receive. They are not notably delicate beasts, however, and rarely, if ever, are they seriously injured.

Incidentally, the troubled Britishers might look nearer home and consider the amenities of fox-hunting. In that there is no question whatever about the suffering of the animals when, after long chases, they are torn to pieces by dogs, and the excuse for doing it is much less than the one the cattlemen have for dealing as they do with stock in the usual course of an essential business.

Why Black Sea Is Different?

The existence of sulphuretted hydrogen in great quantities below 100 fathoms, the extensive chemical precipitation of calcium carbonate and the stagnant nature of its deep waters serve to make the Black Sea unique. The depths of this sea are lifeless. Another peculiarity is that there is a layer of water between 25 and 30 fathoms which is colder than the deeper water. This is because the deep water is saltier than the surface water and practically motionless. In winter time the surface water reaches freezing point and in the spring sinks to the top of the saline deeper water.

Why They Call It "Big Ben"

"Big Ben" was christened "St. Stephen." In 1851 the new houses of parliament were erected. Sir Benjamin Hall, president of public works, had much to do with carrying out the plans of the architects. When in 1859 the question arose as to the name of the bell to be hung in the tower, a member shouted, "Why not call it 'Big Ben'?" Laughter and applause followed, because Sir Benjamin, on account of his enormous height and girth, had often been called "Big Ben."

The "Why" of Ring Finger

In ancient times it was believed that a blood vessel extended from the base of the third finger of the left hand to the heart. Thus, it is said, resulted the choice of that finger for placing the wedding ring. Literature speaks of it as the "vena amoris," or love vein. In reality the belief was correct. There is a vein starting directly at the root of the ring finger, and running over the back of the hand it finds its way to the heart. This vessel is very conspicuous and shows plainly when the hand hangs limply downward.—Detroit News.

Schryver Opens Place Saturday

The gasoline and service station of the George J. Schryver Motor Car Company just across the Esopus creek bridge at the beginning of the Catskill Mountain trail, will be open for business Saturday. Mr. Schryver saw the possibilities of a service station at the start of this popular trail through the Catskill Mountains and early this spring commenced work upon a station. He has purchased some two acres of land just across the viaduct in the town of Ulster and is now busy erecting a new garage near the gas station. On the opening days, Saturday and Sunday, Mr. Schryver will give away a can of grease with a purchase of five gallons of gasoline in order to acquaint the public with the new station. In addition to a gasoline and oil station he will have cigars, cigarettes and refreshments for sale. During the touring season he will maintain camping grounds in the rear on the creek bank.

Mr. Schryver, who in addition to having the agency for the Overland and Willys-Knight cars, is local agent for the Chenango Camp Trailer and after making several trips with his equipment became an enthusiastic "camper" with the result that Kingston will have a camping grounds for those who desire a rough it during the summer and be independent of hotels. He recently sold a Chenango trailer to Mr. Stanley of Rhinebeck, this being the second one sold this season.

Migration of Rats

The date of introduction of the rat into America is very doubtful, but the black or Alexandrine rat seems to have come first and was gradually driven westward by the larger rodents. The black rat found its way to Europe about the beginning of the Sixteenth century, but the brown rat did not reach England until about 1728.

Steamer Fights Fire in Fog

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 9.—Fire which broke out on the Merchants and Miners steamship Ontario while the vessel was fogbound ten miles northeast of Block Island, early today, has been extinguished, according to a wireless from Captain Bond, and the vessel is proceeding under her own power to Boston.

The Ontario was bound from Baltimore to Boston.
The first word that a fire had broken out on the steamer, was flashed at 1:30 o'clock this morning. The S. O. S. was picked up by the East Hampton Station of the Radio Corporation of America, and the distress signal was broadcast.

The steamers Calvin Austin and Melville Dollar answered the call and rushed to the assistance of the Ontario.
An hour later Captain Bond sent another wireless message stating that the crew of the Ontario had extinguished the fire and that the steamer was proceeding to her destination.

GOLF BALL HITS PIPE; MAY LOSE SIGHT OF EYE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 9.—S. Elwood, Philadelphia golfer, may lose the sight of one eye, it developed today, as the result of being struck with his own drive on a Brooklyn course two days ago. The ball hit a rock, rebounded sharply to the tee, struck a pipe which Kerr held between his lips and drove a splinter into the shattered pipe bowl into one of Kerr's eyes.

The victim is confined to a hospital here and until the bandages are removed from his eyes several days hence, it will not be known whether his vision has been saved.

BOYS' BAND DREW ONE OF LARGEST AUDIENCES

One of the largest audiences that ever assembled at the armory for a similar event listened to the Wartburg Orphan Boys' Band Thursday evening, at its concert given under the auspices of Trinity and the Redeemer Lutheran churches. When the boys arrived on the Rhinebeck ferry they gave a brief concert at Freeman Square. Their playing throughout was of a high order and bespoke careful training and considerable youthful talent.

Showing a Tire's Work

An automobile tire company displays in its salesrooms in New York one of the most perfect machines yet devised for demonstrating the working of a tire under road conditions. Mounted on a heavy stand, a big iron drum is driven by an electric motor. An axle and wheel are mounted over the drum, with the tire in contact with it and bearing its weight. The tire is under the same pressure as if on a loaded touring car. The test, a most severe one, consists in driving nails, spikes, etc., into the tire and tube and then running with them in at a rate of about twenty-five miles an hour. The machine is operated by electric power, and is also equipped with a speedometer, which gives a correct speed of wheel, as if in real road use.

The man topped his shot and the ball rolled a few yards.
"You've played the putt first," said the caddy. "Now you're in the soup."

Ordinarily, when a man buys a car, he buys it more or less on faith. The parts that determine whether there is to be lasting satisfaction or quick dissatisfaction are hidden away in the chassis. They never see daylight until trouble comes. In the case of the Hupmobile, the facts are of a different sort. The buyer is perfectly safe if he goes no farther than Hupmobile repute. That tells him of a car which thousands believe to have no equal—at any price or in any class.

SIDNEY TO BUILD BIG ARCH BRIDGE

$25,000,000 Structure for Capital of South Wales.

New York—Ever since the day, more than one hundred years ago, when the first convict ship dropped anchor in Sydney harbor, the greeting of the native Sydneyite to the stranger with his gates has been, "Have you seen our harbor?"

In six years this greeting will probably be changed to "have you seen our bridge?" for Sydney, capital of New South Wales, in the Commonwealth of Australia, will commence work within a few weeks on what will be the largest single arch bridge in the world. The Sydney Harbor bridge linking Dawes Point on the Sydney side to Miller's Point, directly opposite, has been talked of for more than thirty years. Now it is to be built.

The contract for the construction was signed five weeks ago, and recently G. C. Imbault, one of the consulting engineers of the firm of Dorman Long company of England, whose tender was accepted, passed through New York being enroute from Sydney to London to complete arrangements for the commencement of building operations.

The cost of erecting the bridge will be $4,217,721, or approximately $20,540,801. It will be 3,770 feet in length and will have a single arch of 1,850 feet span, the largest of any arch bridge in the world. Its nearest rival in this respect is the Hell Gate bridge, with an arch of 977.5 feet. Besides being the largest arch bridge in the world, the Sydney Harbor bridge will be the third largest bridge of any kind in the world. It will be surpassed only by the Quebec bridge over the St. Lawrence river, with a span of 1,800 feet, and the Fifth of North bridge, with a span of 1,710 feet. The fourth largest span of any bridge is our own Williamsburg bridge, whose span is 1,600 feet, only 50 feet less than the Australian bridge.

Will Cost $25,000,000.

While the actual construction of the bridge will cost more than $20,000,000, to this must be added about 5,000,000 more for the property to be used in the approaches. More than 50,000 tons of steel will be used.

Following the policy that has always been the slogan of the Commonwealth, "Australia for the Australians," the bridge will be built by Australian workmen of material found or made in Australia.

The state parliament of New South Wales had authorized an expenditure of $30,922,750. The tender of Dorman Long & Co. was $10,224,319 less than this amount and $541,510 less than the estimate submitted by J. J. C. Bradfield, the government engineer.

The bridge will allow the largest steamers in the world to pass below, the floor being 170 feet above high-water mark, and will carry four railroad tracks as well as 80 feet of road and footways. The main span will be joined to two granite abutments, towers rising to a height of 310 feet.

G. C. Imbault who, with Ralph Freeman, M. I. C. E., is the consulting engineer of the bridge, has built bridges in all parts of the world. Some of his works are the Victoria Falls bridge over the Zambezi river, in Africa; the bridge over the Blue Nile at Khartoum and the White Nile bridge at Giz Abn Goma. During the war he was in the service of the French government rebuilding bridges that had been destroyed by the Germans.

Speaking of the construction of the bridge, Mr. Imbault said that only the parts that cannot be manufactured in Australia would be imported from abroad.

"As much Australian steel as Australian manufacturers are prepared to produce and to roll into plates and shapes will be used in its fabrication. The bridge will be fabricated wholly at Milson's Point, Sydney, by Australian workmen; the piers and abutments will be constructed of Moruya granite, Nepean river sand and New South Wales cement, and the bridge will be constructed by Australian labor."

To Take Six Years to Complete.

Mr. Imbault said that the abutments would rest on the sandstone formation that is within a few feet of the surface along the foreshores of Sydney harbor, and that the engineers would not be bothered with any problems of sinking caissons into the water. He estimated that it would take six years to complete, and that during that time employment would be furnished to from 1,200 to 1,500 mechanics, engineers, steel workers and other artisans.

The completion of the bridge will bring to a successful conclusion an issue that has existed for more than a quarter of a century. Before the beginning of the Twentieth century Sydney had outstripped its housing facilities on the south side of the harbor, where the city proper existed. Thousands of residences had been built, even then, on North Shore, Milson's Point, Mosman's Bay and the coves and inlets that wind in all directions. The North Shore railroad line extended from Milson's Point through a rapidly growing residential area. The only communication with Sydney proper was by ferryboat.

Several styles of bridges were suggested. Commissions were appointed to investigate and determine the best kind. Finally, after years of work, J. J. C. Bradfield, chief engineer, submitted a design which met with general approval.

Decide on Arch Bridge.

When the bridge is completed the transcontinental express will start at Rockhampton, Queensland, on its run of 3,880 miles to Fremantle in Western Australia and will pass through Sydney, via the Sydney Harbor bridge, thus shortening the distance by several miles. The same cars and coaches will run through, steam and electric locomotives only being changed at various division points.

The traveling time between Sydney and the suburbs to the south as well as points on the suburban and Illawarra line and the great resorts of Manly, Narrabeen, the Spit and Mosman's Bay will be reduced in many instances by one-half on completion of the bridge. Railroad trains and street cars will run direct from the Central station to these points.

The style of bridge to be erected was for some time the subject of considerable controversy. Finally it slumped down to the choice of one of the three principal styles, suspension, cantilever and arch; the latter, it was concluded, would best harmonize with the natural beauty of the harbor.

In this connection it is noteworthy that when the Sydney Harbor bridge is completed three of the world's four largest bridges will be of different types. The Quebec bridge over the St. Lawrence river in Canada, the world's greatest bridge, is of the cantilever type. So is the Fifth of North bridge in Scotland. The Sydney Harbor bridge, next in size, is an arch bridge, and Williamsburg bridge, spanning the East river from Manhattan to Williamsburg, is a suspension bridge.

Plan to Bridge Golden Gate. Next in order of size come the other New York bridges, Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queensboro and Hell Gate, the two first named being suspension bridges, the third a cantilever and the last an arch bridge, at this time and until the completion of the Sydney Harbor bridge the largest of its kind in the world.

While the Sydney Harbor bridge is in process of erection work on three other large bridges in the United States will be going on. For more than one hundred years there has been talk of building a bridge over the Delaware river between Philadelphia, Pa., and Camden, N. J. It is being built now.

The accepted design for this bridge calls for an expenditure on the bridge itself of $13,355,000. The Philadelphia approach is to cost $3,550,000 in addition, and the Camden approach, including the land taken and the paving of the approach, is to be $2,600,000. The electrical equipment of the bridge is to cost $250,000 and the engineering expenses are to be $1,250,000. Real estate foreclosed in Philadelphia is valued at $4,500,000 and in Camden at $1,600,000. The distance between pierhead lines will be 1,800 feet and the span will be 1,750 feet.

Plans are being worked out in San Francisco for a bridge over the Golden Gate which will be considerably larger than the proposed suspension bridge across the Hudson river between New York and New Jersey. Its middle span of 4,000 feet will be 750 feet longer and its towers 170 feet higher than the Hudson river project. The estimated cost of the bridge is $17,250,000.

Detroit Planning Bridge. The Golden Gate bridge will be unique in construction. It will combine the features of the suspension and cantilever types. At the point selected for the bridge site the shores are 6,700 feet apart. Rock ledges fifty feet under water extend from each side, making the actual channel about 4,000 feet wide. The cost of a suspension bridge with cables 7,000 feet or more in length was prohibitive, nor was cantilever construction practicable.

With two side spans and its middle span of 4,000 feet the bridge will be 1.6 miles in length. The 747-foot steel towers will stand on piers 200 feet from base to top, making the towers about 150 feet above rock bottom. The height above high water mark will be 200 feet and the width will be 80 feet. There will be two trolley car lines, two automobile roadways in each direction and two seven-foot sidewalks.

Plans have been prepared by the City of Detroit for a bridge over the Detroit river. This will provide a great highway for railroad and vehicular traffic between the Michigan city and Canada. The plans of Charles E. Fowler, chief engineer, and Dr. D. B. Steinman, his chief assistant, call for a center span of 1,500 feet from center to center of towers. The shore spans will be 925 feet in length from the center of the tower to the anchorage. The floor of the bridge between the towers will be suspended from eight cables and between the towers and anchorages it will be carried upon a series of steel piers.

The traffic over the bridge will be carried on two decks. Upon the highway deck will be two trolley tracks, two twenty-eight-foot roadways and two seven-foot sidewalks. On the lower deck will be four railroad tracks.

Keep Physically Fit

There are only a few propositions for human conduct that nobody disputes. Here, I think, is one of them: Regardless of sex, age or vocation, every person is better off, mentally, morally, socially and financially, for devoting part of his leisure time to the task of keeping physically fit.

Many Icelanders have never seen a train nor a trolley car, a draft nor a masterpiece of art; nor have they ever seen a tree; only saplings in some very sheltered nook. They have no gardens, fruit or grapevines.

Let Kellogg's Bran free your children from that dangerous disease—constipation

Children are subject to constipation. In the excitement of play, they neglect themselves and foster this dread disease. More than forty other diseases can be traced to constipation. Don't delay. Begin at once to cleanse their systems of the dangerous poisons.

Kellogg's Bran sweeps the intestine clean—and purifies it. It drives out the poisons which undermine your children's health. It makes the bowels function regularly and naturally.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krum-bled, is guaranteed to bring results if eaten regularly, or your grocer will return your money. It is guaranteed because it is ALL bran! Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Kellogg's Bran is recommended by doctors everywhere—they know from experience that it brings results.

Have your children eat it regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. They will like its wonderful, nut-like flavor—so different from common bran which are most unpalatable.

As a cereal, with milk or cream, they will enjoy Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krum-bled. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in delicious muffins, bread, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

But start them eating Kellogg's Bran today. Start every member of your family eating it. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krum-bled, is made in Battle Creek and is served in individual packages by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Ask for it at your restaurant. It is sold by all grocers.

SACRED CARVINGS FOUND IN BOTTLE

All Appurtenances to Death of Christ on Cross Shown.

Washington.—Smithsonian Institution officials are puzzled by an antique, dug out of the ruins of an ancient castle in Piedmont, Italy, which has just been brought to their attention.

It is a bottle, in which there is a carefully carved replica of all the instruments used in the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. It is a narrow-necked bottle, plugged with a wooden stopper. The carvings are prevented from coming out by a cross arm of wood, to which they are fastened.

Not only the carving but the bottling itself is of skillful workmanship. How the articles were carved, placed in the bottle and the container sealed is a mystery.

Many of the pieces contained are larger than the bottle's opening. The theory that the maker blew the bottle around the work after its completion is given little credence, because the wood is glued to the base of the flask. It is pointed out that had the molten glass been put around the carvings the point on them, which is intact, would have been scorched.

The cross, of course, is the principal feature of the work. Atop it is a rooster.

The spear, the garment Christ wore, the dice with which His slayers gambled, the tools with which the cross was made, the ladder, the sponge from which the Savior drank, the hand which slapped Him and numerous other and less important articles all are faithfully depicted.

On the cross are the letters "I. N. R. I." which some authorities claim stand for the Latin words meaning "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews."

The artist's name is lettered crudely on the base thus:

"Majocco Bartolozzi of Torino, Italy, 1903."

France Has "Demon Ray" to Wipe Out Her Enemies

Paris.—Upon the eve of the armistice France possessed a "demon ray," the most terrible annihilating force which the mind of man ever conceived, with which, scientists claim, the entire German army could have been killed and every man, woman, child and animal in the German cities wiped out. This was revealed in Paris following discussions of Grindem Matthews' invisible radio ray, with which the British arm is planning to guard London.

A noted French scientist, whose name is kept secret, discovered the "demon ray" accidentally while conducting laboratory experiments in the autumn of 1918. French authorities commended the invention. Apparatus for launching the death-dealing rays was being installed to annihilate the German army, navy and air forces when the armistice was declared.

The invention then was abandoned until the present, when it is believed it will be secretly reconstructed as a counter-weapon to the Matthews ray.

Boy of 6 Killed Playing With His Mother's Pistol

New York.—Ernest, six-year-old son of Mrs. Marie Shine, found a shiny new toy under his mother's pillow and took it to play with while she slept. The toy was a loaded revolver. Several moments later a shot awakened Mrs. Shine and she rushed into the parlor to find Ernest on the floor, unconscious, a bullet in his chest. The revolver was discharged when Ernest dropped it heavily to the floor.

Mrs. Shine was released by Magistrate Barrett in Harlem court, to take charge of her boy's body, after putting up $300 bond for appearance. There are two other children at the Shine apartment at 223 East One Hundred Third street. The father is employed nights.

WILL LIVE ON ISLE TO STUDY BIRDS

Will Dwell in Tent on Scott Head Island to Learn of Migrations.

An extremely interesting and lonely six months is ahead of the English woman naturalist, Miss E. Turner, who has just left London for her residence on Scott Head, some 10 miles out from the wild, desolate coast of Norfolk.

Turner is marooning herself on almost unknown and never visited island in order to learn more about bird habits. She has spent years studying birds, but confesses she has gained no real knowledge about them. She is particularly anxious to find out something more about migratory birds, and on this island in the North sea will be able to keep watch of their movements.

There are no houses on Scott Head and Miss Turner has taken her tent, a weirdly painted affair which aroused some curiosity among the scientists who accompanied her as far as the coast.

"The tent," explained Miss Turner, "is the one from which I believe the British army took the idea of camouflage. I used it in the Farne Islands as a hiding place while watching birds here in the winter of 1914. It became dirty yellow and could be seen all over the island, so one day I got some white paint for it. The day was windy, and at the flapping canvas and white paint on it as best I could, when I walked away from it, and, to my astonishment, it became invisible."

Duchess de Tallyrand's Husband to Sell Estates

Above is pictured the duchess de Tallyrand, the former Anna Gould, whose husband, the Duc de Tallyrand, has placed at public auction sale his vast estates comprised in the principality of Sagan, which lies between Silesia and Brandenburg. The domain is of about 500 square miles and has 65,000 population with many public buildings, a city hall, many chateaux, a Gothic church and a river "full of excellent fish." The only qualifications are that the Duc de Tallyrand shall be permitted to retain the title of "serene highness" and that his minister of finance shall determine the sale price.

Color Contrasts in Spring Gloves

Gauntlets Carry Beautiful Shades in Embroidery, Ribbon or Leather.

This year, more than ever before, is the demand for originality manifesting itself in gloves, both in those made here and in France, says a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. With the single exception of evening gloves, the keynote is to be found in color contrasts. Even the gloves that one wears with a tailored costume reflect the tendency toward brilliance and virility.

The gloves themselves may range throughout the entire chromatic scale from white to black; it is in the embroidery, and most particularly in embroidered cuffs, that the contrasts are found. Cuffs turn back, revealing brilliant linings of silk or leather.

Combinations of black and white are many. An interesting and attractive example of the association of these two colors is found in black kid gloves with reversed cuffs lined with perforated white kid, through which the black ground accents the pattern of the perforations. The same effect is acquired in many instances with gloves lined with black, green, brown, red, or in fact almost any other color.

The lighter shades of tan such as fawn, beige, sand, mode and mastic, are worn extensively this spring, embroidered either in direct contrast or in a darker brown shade.

An original note is the tassel. For afternoon wear, gloves with turned-down cuffs brightly embroidered have long tassels pendant from the wrist. Before the season is much further advanced every well-dressed woman will have at least one pair of tasseled gloves. For the most part the tassels are of silk, either to match the leather or in contrast, for example, tassels of jet beads hanging from gloves of white mocha. The cuffs, turned back, were lined with black moire on which the design was embroidered in beading.

Scalloped edges are seen frequently, cuffs are formed by a series of scallops overlaid after the manner of flower petals. The effect is altogether charming.

Ribbons are used on the new gloves. A pair that is receiving much favorable comment is of beige suede with cuffs edged with a narrow band of silk ribbon, printed with some bright, intricate pattern. Paisley is used freely for this purpose, as are the motifs from China, India, Egypt and the Scandinavian countries.

One of the leading French manufacturers has made gloves of white mocha with short, flaring cuffs to which are attached squares of bright plaid ribbons to make a wide, though very floppy gauntlet cuff.

The woman who really gives due consideration to appearance and taste wears nothing but pure white gloves for evening. Not even in the stitching is any contrast permissible; embroideries must be as white as the leather itself. Only in the choice of leathers is any latitude allowable this spring. Evening gloves may be of shiny kid or velvety suede.

As for length, the short two or three-button styles are equally appropriate with long or short sleeves. Twelve or sixteen-button lengths are permissible with short-sleeved or sleeveless frocks for informal occasions; it is a matter for individual decision, but for evening, fashion decrees elbow-length gloves.

Henna Duvetyn Coat, Monkey Fur Trimming

Henna duvetyn is trimmed with the ever-popular monkey fur and gold galloon braid to make this afternoon wrap.

SHADY.

Shady, May 8.—A very pretty birthday party was given at the home of Mrs. Oren Russell Saturday last in honor of her little son, George, and his little cousin, Ruth Elwyn, of Woodstock, both children aged 9 years. The home was very prettily decorated with vines and crepe paper of bright colors fastened at the ceiling and at the ends and sides of the table, which was spread for the little folks. Each child had on a little hat of different shape and all had smiling faces. The birthday cakes were very prettily decorated and had nine lighted candles around each. While the little ones were seated at the table the larger ones sang "Let Your Lower Lights be Burning," and after that the larger ones were served with the most delicious cake and coffee, also fudge and ice cream which all present enjoyed very much. The little ones had a peanut race. Also a spider web with a prize at the end. The larger ones were entertained by phonograph music and games of various selections. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. James MacDaniel and sons, Harry and Garvin,

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Howland and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Elwyn, and daughter, Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Barnett MacDaniel, Robert Howland of Oneonta and friend, Miss Marcella B. Oakley of Milford, N. Y., Miss Annie Rose and Herman Whipple, Mrs. Russell and family. All spent a very enjoyable evening and upon going away all voted Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Elwyn royal entertainers. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kilne and family of Kingston called on Mrs. N. MacDaniel Sunday last. Victor Rose and sister, Lenora, also Ella Rose called on Charles Rose Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln MacDaniel called on Martin MacDaniel Sunday afternoon.

Wednesday, April 30, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Miller celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary at their home here. Mr. Miller keeps remarkably smart and active for his age, being past eighty-eight years, as he looks after his little place of three acres, which he cultivates, raising garden stuff of all kinds as well as apples and small fruits. He also keeps a cow and feds a pig and raises a nice lot of chickens, etc. He enjoys good health. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were born in the town of Woodstock and have lived most of their life here. They have a family of five children and thirteen grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Sunday this couple spent a very pleasant day with Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Vosburgh meeting with them and several other friends.

Mrs. Granville Whipple and son, Herman, and Miss Annie Rose and John Becker, also Ruby Carl and Charles Teetsel called on friends in Ashokan Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ida Shook of this place visited friends of Kingston several days of the past week.

They come in solid masses, often packing the shallow rapids.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY. The first Theosophical Society for the propagation of the "wisdom-religion" was founded by Mrs. Helen Blavatsky, a Russian woman, who died in London thirty-three years ago. After her "transmigration," the work was taken up by Mrs. Katherine Tingley in America and Annie Besant in Europe and India, with the result that the cult has spread all over the world. The headquarters in America are at Point Loma, near San Diego, Cal., where the society conducts schools, publication offices and other activities. International headquarters are maintained at Adyar, Madras, India. It has territorial sections comprising the United States and Canada, Great Britain, Australia and several European nations, the American section having 3,000 members and 125 branches. "The universal brotherhood of humanity" is the basic principle of the cult.

DETROIT BLOCKADED. Those who have just ordered a new "river" need not trouble for the blockade above alluded to happened long before the Pride of Detroit began to wend its way along the highways and byways of old earth—in fact we refer to the blockade by the famous chief of the Ottawa Indians, Pontiac—after whom the now well known town of Pontiac, Mich., is named.

It was on May 9, 1763, that the chief began his memorable blockade of the future "Flivver City." He and his braves appeared before the fort and asked for a council in the fort so that the Indians might, at a given signal, begin a general massacre. However, a squaw revealed the scheme to Major Gladwin, and he permitted the council, but so disposed the garrison that Pontiac was intimidated.

Later in the month 100 men under Lt. Cuyler were attacked by the red sking and forced to surrender. All of them were massacred. The following month by the strategy of a kamo of La Crosse the Indians gained entrance to the fort at Michilimackinac and butchered the garrison. In July a fleet of gunboats under Capt. Ditzell, with 400 men managed to reach Detroit and march against Pontiac. The chief heard of the coming attack and formed an ambush at Bloody Ridge, where the British were defeated and Ditzell and a score of others killed. In May, 1764, Pontiac was forced to retreat from his blockade by a force commanded by Colonel Bradstreet. Although Pontiac many times made peace with the British he always broke his word and made him the chance of winning.

CATHERINE RUSH.

Medical annals have seldom recorded so rare a case of longevity as that of Catherine Rush, who died in Philadelphia on May 1, 1819, just one hundred and seven years ago today, at the age of 110 years and 11 months. So far as is known Catherine Rush had lived on the outskirts of Philadelphia all her life, and no one was particularly interested in her until she reached the age of 100. The remarkable part of it is that she seemed to grow stronger with age, having been a very frail girl. When she passed the one hundred year mark physicians began to watch her. They kept up their watching for nearly twelve years. It was Catherine Rush's greatest desire, when she felt the end coming, to round out 112 years. She failed of it by one month.

The Standard State Zoning Act

The Freeman:
Following is the text of a state enabling act under which municipalities may adopt zoning regulations in accordance with the state laws of 1916. It is by the state committee on zoning, advisory committee on zoning, department of commerce, Washington, D. C., secretary: Herbert Hoover, secretary.

Section 1.—Grant of Power. For the purpose of promoting health, safety, morals or the general welfare of the community, the legislative body of cities and incorporated towns is hereby empowered to regulate the location, height, number of stories and size of buildings and other structures, the percentage of lot that may be occupied, the size of lots, streets and other open spaces, the density of population and the use of buildings, structures and lands for trade, industry, residence or other purposes.

Section 2.—Districts. For any or all of the purposes of this act, the legislative body of such municipality may divide the municipality into districts of such number, shape and area as may be deemed best for the purposes of this act; and may within such districts it may regulate and restrict the erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair or use of buildings, structures or land. All such regulations shall be uniform for each class of buildings throughout each district, but the regulations in one district may differ from those of other districts.

Section 3.—Purpose in View. Such regulations shall be in accordance with a comprehensive plan and designed to lessen congestion in the city; to secure safety from fire, panic and other dangers; to promote health and general welfare; to provide adequate light and air; to prevent the overcrowding of land; to avoid undue concentration of population; to facilitate the adequate provision of transportation, water, sewerage, schools, parks and other public requirements. Such regulations shall be made with reasonable consideration, among other things, of the character of the district and its suitability for particular uses, and with a view to conserving the value of buildings and encouraging the most appropriate use of land throughout such municipality.

Section 4.—Method of Procedure. The legislative body of such municipality shall provide for the manner in which regulations and restrictions of boundaries of such districts shall be determined, established and amended, and from time to time amended, supplemented, or changed, however, no such regulation, restriction or boundary shall become effective until after a public hearing thereon, at which parties interested and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard. (This hearing may be held in public or in private, but the hearing shall be open to all persons who wish to be heard, and the hearing shall be held in public if requested by any person who wishes to be heard.)

Section 5.—Notice of Hearing. At least 15 days' notice of the time and place of such hearing shall be published in an official paper, or paper of general circulation, in such municipality.

Section 6.—Changes. Such regulations, restrictions, and boundaries from time to time be amended, supplemented, changed, modified, or repealed. In case, however, of a proposed change, signed by owners of 20 per cent or more of the area of the lots included in such proposed change, or of the immediately adjacent lots, or thereof extending . . . feet from, or of those directly opposite thereof extending . . . feet from the street frontage of such lots, such amendment shall not become effective except by the favorable vote of three-fourths of all the members of the legislative body of such municipality. (It is obvious that provision must be made for changing regulations as conditions change, and new conditions arise, otherwise the act would be a "strait-jacket" to a detriment to a community in the long run.)

Section 7.—Provisions. There are three groups of provisions, and if 20 per cent or more of these object to the proposed change, it requires a three-fourths vote of the legislative body for the change can be effective. These three are (1) the owners of the lots included in the change; (2) the owners of the lots immediately adjacent to the lots in the rear; and (3) the owners of the lots directly opposite. The provisions of the previous section relative to public hearings and official notice shall apply to all changes or amendments.

Section 8.—Remedies. In case any building or structure is erected, constructed, reconstructed, converted, or altered, or any building, structure, or land is used in violation of any act or of any ordinance or other regulation made under authority conferred hereby, the proper local authorities of the municipality, in addition to other remedies, may institute appropriate action or proceedings to prevent such unlawful erection, construction, reconstruction, alteration, repair, conversion, maintenance, or use, or to restrain, correct, or abate such violation, to prevent the occupancy of such building, structure, or land, prevent its use, or to restrain, correct, or abate such violation, or to prevent the occupancy of such building, structure, or land, prevent its use, or to restrain, correct, or abate such violation.

Section 9.—Enforcement. Under the provisions of this act the local authorities may use any or all of the following methods for enforcing compliance with the law: They may sue the responsible person for a civil penalty; they may arrest the offender and put him in jail; they may sue for the cost of a new building, and prevent its going on; they may prevent the occupancy of a building and keep it vacant until such conditions complained of are remedied; they can evict the occupant of a building when the conditions are contrary to law, and prevent its re-occupancy until conditions have been remedied.

POULTRY

IMPORTANT FACTORS IN CARE OF CHICKS

The care of the baby chick is of greatest importance during the early part of the chick's life. Careless handling often results in loss of chicks and stunted growth, points out D. H. Hall, extension poultry specialist at Clemson college, who adds the following suggestions.

In caring for the baby chicks the first thing that should be done is to see that they have a good place to sleep at night. The coops or the house where the baby chicks sleep should be kept clean, dry, and sanitary, should be free from lice and mites, and should afford protection from cats and nocturnal vermin, such as rats, which prey upon chicks.

The mother of the baby chicks should be confined in a coop or house, and the baby chicks should be allowed free range. If the mother is confined, the baby chicks will range around the mother, but will remain within a limited area of her. In case of rain or hawks, the mother can call the baby chicks to her and protect them in the coop. When the mother is allowed free range, the weaker baby chicks will be lost or become so weak that they will die on the range. The mother will take the baby chicks out through damp grass and early morning dew, thereby chilling them and weakening their bodies down to where disease may easily overcome them.

The baby chicks should be confined in early morning, while the mother hen should be confined at all times, if best results are to be obtained from the care of the baby chick, and the house should be kept dry and clean.

Proper Amount of Feed for Flock of Chickens

As to how much to feed, a question frequently asked, we can do no better than refer to the advice offered by the United States Department of Agriculture: "The feeder must use his own judgment in deciding how much grain to give the hens, as the amount of feed which they will eat varies with the different pens and at different seasons of the year. They will eat more feed in the spring while laying heavily than in the summer and fall when laying fewer eggs. A fair general estimate is to feed about one quart of scratch grains and an equal weight of mash (about 1 1/2 quarts) daily to 13 hens of the general purpose breeds, such as the Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds or Wyandottes, or to 16 hens of the smaller or egg breeds. This would be about 7 1/2 pounds of scratch grains and mash daily to 100 Leghorns and about 9 1/2 pounds each to general purpose fowls. If hens have free range or large runs containing green food a general purpose hen will eat about 75 pounds of feed a year and a Leghorn will eat about 55 pounds, in addition to the green stuff consumed."

Preventive Measures to Guard Against Diseases

Early in the spring, when everything else around the farm is being cleaned and put in shape for the summer, a coat of whitewash will add greatly to the appearance and sanitation of the interior of the poultry house. It is the cheapest of all paints and may be used on the exterior of the building, too, if so desired.

Whitewash is made by slaking about ten pounds of quicklime in a pail with two gallons of water, covering the pail with cloth or burlap and allowing it to slake for one hour. Water is then added to bring the whitewash to a consistency which may be applied readily.

A weatherproof whitewash for exterior surfaces may be made as follows: (1) Slake one bushel of quicklime in twelve gallons of hot water; (2) dissolve two pounds of common salt and one pound of sulphate of zinc in two gallons of boiling water; pour (2) into (1), then add two gallons of skim milk and mix thoroughly. Whitewash is spread lightly over the surface with a broad brush.

Poultry Hints

It seldom pays to keep a hen after her second laying season.

A young duck should begin to lay at about five months of age.

Leghorns can get along on three square feet of henhouse space; the larger breeds need four square feet.

How often the old litter should be removed and replaced by new depends on the number of birds in the house, and dryness of the floor.

Do not take all the eggs to market. Let the children have all they want for breakfast. It will pay you.

Give the little poult a fresh supply of clean water at least twice a day and thoroughly scald the water dishes twice a week.

Ducks will seldom eat enough grit from a box or hopper, hence many feeders mix coarse sand or fine grit in their mash feed in the proportion of about five per cent of the bulk by measure.

A Far Greater Car Than Its Price Indicates

Judge the Maxwell by the standards you associate with a much higher price, and even then the good Maxwell will lead by a wide margin.

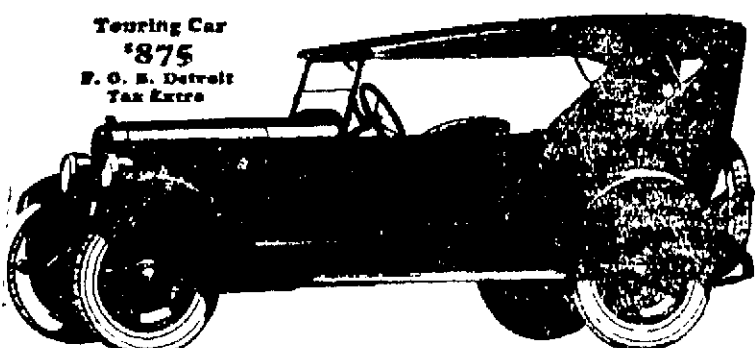

Everything in it is good and true—fine chrome nickel steel is used in as many places in the good Maxwell as in cars selling at nearly twice as much.

All the efforts of a great and powerful organization are directed towards making it the best buy in the world at anywhere near its price.

We will demonstrate gladly—for riding comfort and ease of handling make the car itself its own best spokesman.

Russian Troops Face Roumanians

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, May 9.—Russia has begun concentrating troops along the Roumanian frontier, according to a report printed by the Daily Express today.
Roumania is said to be rushing soldiers to strategic border points.
The Russians are reported to be fortifying a line along the Dniester river. The populations of the district where the military movements are under way, are fleeing southward.
Soviet Russia and Roumania have been at loggerheads ever since the latter country seized the Russian province of Bessarabia. A peace conference was held in Vienna but it broke down.
Recently King Ferdinand, of Roumania, visited Paris and it was understood France promised him aid in the event of war between Roumania and Russia.

Their Thanks To Those Who Helped Make Ball Enjoyable.
The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital was held at the nurses' home Wednesday afternoon. The returns on the Easter Ball are not yet complete, but it is expected that a goodly sum has been realized.
A vote of thanks was given to all those who in any way helped to make the ball a success. Special mention was made of Miss Gabrielle Grober of Albany, whose beautiful voice charmed the large audience, and of those talented young ladies the Misses Fannie Kellner, Marion Byrne and Elsie Gleason, whose graceful dancing was so much enjoyed; and also of the Musicians Union, two of whose orchestras furnished such splendid dance music. To these and to all who assisted, the ladies of the Auxiliary are grateful.

LIGHTS USED ON DIFFERENT CARS

Various Little Details Owner Should Know to Save Lamp Troubles.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago)

The lightning bug is brilliant. But it hasn't any mind. For it blunders through existence with its headlight on behind.

Poor Mr. Lightning bug's headlight is standard equipment, as is his one speed (forward) transmission. Consequently Nature, not he, is to blame. Regardless of his defect the title of my story stands pat. I still maintain that there are headlights on the front of an automobile just as there are light heads behind the steering wheel. To illustrate:

Jones used to buy bulbs for his car which either threw out as much illumination as a glow worm, or burnt out almost immediately. It cost him quite some money before he found that even the ornery little headlight bulb had to be humored exactly as did the engine.

What Jones didn't know was that every car has an individual lighting system of either a six volt, twelve-volt or eighteen volt plant, that the manufacturer either connected each lamp socket to two separate wires (double contact base), or used the metal frame-work of the car for return, running only one wire to each socket (single contact base).

House Lamps Uniform

Jones thought that motor lamps could be bought as one buys his house lamps. That lamps for home lighting were uniform in certain communities. That both cellar and parlor lights were of the same voltage? He was right about the home lighting but wrong about his automobile lamps.

One day he ran into an accessory store where the salesman knew his business. This chap passed Jones a few questions that got him all bawled up:

"What voltage is your battery? Do you want a single or a double contact lamp and what candle power? Or do you want a B or C lamp?" Inquired the salesman.

"I don't know," stammered Jones, "I thought—"

"But you shouldn't guess at an important thing like that," snapped the salesman. "It's fellows like you that buy blindly and then run down the lamp manufacturer simply because you don't know what type lamp is needed. You can't buy any of our lamps until you find out what kind your car should carry."

Jones Acknowledged Mistake.

Jones went home furious. As soon as he quit seeing red he dug up the car's instruction book and started to read it. Interested, he went over to the local library and made a thorough study of motor lamps in general. Then he went back to this salesman and bought his lamps, apologized, thanked him for saving him future money, and installed the new lamps. His lighting troubles have all disappeared. He acknowledges that he was at fault—that he went about his headlight troubles with a light head—and that the manufacturer did make good lamps.

Reader, are you in Jones' predicament, or did you become acquainted with your lamps in time to save money and temper? That salesman sure had the right idea. He woke Jones up and Jones reciprocated by becoming a steady customer.

Force of Sudden Stopping

When a motor car is running 15 miles an hour and is brought to an abrupt stop, the impact is equal to that of a body striking the earth from a height of 15 feet. When a car is running 50 m.p.h. and is stopped in its tracks, the impact is equal to that of a 120-foot fall.

DEATH TOLLS PAID AT GRADE CROSSINGS

There is always some otherwise sane person willing to take a chance at a grade crossing and gamble with death. How many of these chance-taking folks there are is attested by the death tolls payable at railroad crossings. Here is a visualization of what happens to those who do not stop, don't look and don't listen when they come to grade crossings, but take a chance to beat the train to it. The party in this car took the chance. They disregarded the flagman's signal. The inevitable smash and loss resulted. It was the most realistic grade accident which could happen. The stunt was staged by the New York Central railway in connection with the automobile club of Corning, N. Y., at Corning, as a warning to those who are apt to become careless when coming to a grade crossing. The figures in this case were dummies. They didn't know better—don't be a dummy. Be careful!

Rules Insuring Safety

When making minor repairs, stop the car where it can be seen from both directions.

Warning signs are never put up as ornaments. Always read and obey their messages of caution.

Be sure that "dimmers" really dim. It is dangerous for a motorist to drive into a blinding glare.

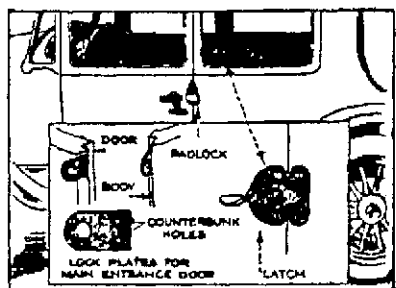

Try to help, instead of hindering, the traffic officer. He has a tough job, but is always ready to offer assistance.

Always use discretion, having the car under control at all times and be considerate of pedestrians and other motorists.

Security Against Theft Afforded by Neat Lock

Many small closed cars are not provided with door locks and the owners do not always want to pay the price demanded for handles of the locking type, or regular pillar locks.

A car of this type may very easily be locked by means of a padlock, however, thus making it a safe place to leave clothing and packages, as well as affording additional protection against car theft. As indicated, the left front door is provided with two Simple Method of Locking the Doors of a Small Closed Car Using Only One Lock.

Flat iron lock plates, one being screwed in a recess cut in the door edge, the other in the casing so that the screws are covered when the door is closed. The remaining doors are fitted with simple latches, or sliding bolts which are fastened before leaving the car.

These fittings are inexpensive, and, with a neat padlock of good make, do not detract from the appearance of the car, while adding to its security against theft.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Ordinary Adhesive Tape Will Stop Water Leaks

When water leakage develops between the rubber hose and the outlet from the cylinder jacket or where the hose joins the radiator pipe it can be obviated by wrapping the joints with ordinary adhesive tape. The proper method to follow is to remove the clamps, tape the joints and shellac the tape. When the shellac is dry the hose clamps should be replaced. Be sure that the clamp draws up in a perfect circle. If it is out of shape and will not draw up properly it will bunch up the rubber hose so that leakage will begin again before long.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

Trouble comes when the jay walker meets up with the joy rider.

A collapsible water bucket for filling the radiator should be included in the equipment of every car.

Shellac, as well as graphite, is always helpful for preserving rims, and facilitates the removing of tires.

The horse may be passing out, but it is still a good idea, when approaching a railroad crossing, to whom.

I Was No Beauty

As a girl—till these ways made me so

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I was not a natural beauty. Many a girl had finer hair, figure and complexion. But my mother, with all her knowledge of the world for the greatest beauty helps in existence. These helps made me a famous beauty, and kept that beauty to my grand old age.

I have seen those helps bring multiplied beauty to countless young girls since then. They have brought to many friends of mine decades of added youth. That is why I now am helping millions to obtain them.

The supreme help

Clay is the greatest beauty help that ever came to women. Famous beauties have for ages used it. Now in every circle you see its marvelous effects.

It purges the skin of all that marks or clogs it. It removes the old skin, leaving one a baby-like complexion. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. No girl or woman who knows its results will ever go without it.

Franco gave me a super-clay, white, refined and dainty. It is based on 20 years of scientific study. No crude and muddy clays can bring comparable results. I call it my White Youth Clay. To that I owe my youthful bloom, which countless women envy. Now that White Youth Clay is at your call. The price is 50 cents and $1.

Matchless creams.

My Youth Cream is the greatest old cream science has perfected. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the skin texture.

I use it after my clay. Also as a night cream. Also daytimes as a powder base. Never for one hour am I without it. It softens, whitens, feeds and protects the skin. Now I offer you that Youth Cream. The price is 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser perfected by French experts. Now the great purifiers of beauty, the world over, employ it.

To Dedicate Church Bell

New Bell at Ponckhockte Congregational Church, The Gift of W. B. and R. Terwilliger, Will Be Dedicated Sunday—Mother's Day.

On Sunday, Mother's Day, the Ponckhockte Congregational Church will dedicate a new bell which has recently been placed in the tower of the church. The bell is the gift of William B. and Ralph Terwilliger in memory of their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Terwilliger, who was one of the first teachers in the Sunday school, which was organized about seventy years ago. The dedication of the bell will occur at the morning service, and a special invitation is extended to those who were members of this Sunday school "long ago." The new windows, pews and other improvements have made this church building beautiful and modern.

ESTABLISHING STYLES FOR SUMMER GARMENTS

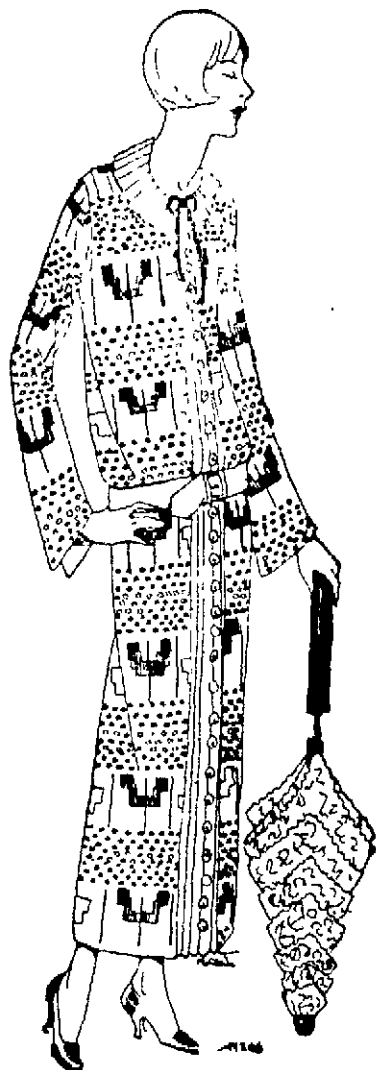

(By Eleanor Gunn)

The racing season which draws the fashionables of Paris and all the world, for that matter, to Longchamp, has a style message to the world, since it is at this famous course that many fashions see the light of day.

Many contend that the prominence of patterned fabrics is one of the outstanding features of this meet—others that the reappearance of the belt seems of most importance. In America we are always breathless trying to keep up with the changing mode abroad. It seems but a moment since belts were discarded, and dresses took to being straight-from-the-shoulder affairs.

This type of dress pleases us and will unquestionably continue through the summer, but there will be belted models too, for we are not quite such a flock of sheep as we seem to be in following a fashion. Belts are both wide and narrow, one's selection being governed by what is best suited to the figure. Belts are frequently very gay in color and often intricate affairs in which colored elastic plays a decorative as well as a practical role.

The woman who is skeptical of the success of figured fabrics might hesitate to invest in a costly gown which is conspicuously patterned. She would, however, jump at the chance to possess a charming cotton frock. The model sketched is a Rodier cotton belted with kid, brilliant in color as well as strong in character. A finely pleated panel of plain linen, crystal buttons and a pleated collar with stung ties makes for individuality.

Some of the smartest shops demonstrate their confidence in prints and striped silks by making them the basis of their summer displays. Their excellent performance at the Southland is responsible for this confidence, for striped silk shirtings and taffetas and many Pompadour and other figured chiffons, georgettes and cottons reestablished the status of printed fabrics.

Among the high lights which are interesting, if not always practical, may be mentioned the use of lizard skin as an applique on satin. Lizard and snake skins have both made a triumphant entry into millinery circles and are proving decorative for dress trappings as well as such accessories as belts and bags. Some of the smartest hats to reach us from Paris are made entirely of lizard, and these are timely indeed, because of our present enthusiasm for sports clothes.

Speaking of sports clothes, georgette has been introduced into the sports clothes field. One model is entirely tucked from yoke to hem and has a matching scarf for the scarf is still a style factor. So formidable a rival has the silk scarf become to the fur neckpiece, that furriers are uncommonly active in launching scarf models. The animal scarf in white fox is being played up for summer and combinations of georgette with fox bandings are engaging the attention of women who have occasion to wear such things. They are at their best in white fur with a light range of colors appropriate for evening.

USEFUL HINTS ON CARE OF CLOTHES

English Writer Tells How to Preserve Garments.

Good clothes need care. Many a man spends much money on his personal appearance, but is so untidy or so neglectful of the proper care of his clothes that very soon expensive suits become shabby.

It is never a good policy to wear the same suit consistently throughout the week—if it is brought into use alternately with another it will last as long again, for when "off duty" the wool has a chance to regain its vitality. The same idea is at the back of the theory that a man should have two sets of razors—when the one is resting the steel can recover its temper.

If clothes are to be preserved they must be kept free of dust, says Fout-hill Beckford in the London Mail, and this can only be done by a thorough brushing every time they are taken off.

All pockets should be emptied, for, strange as it may seem, it is the little collection of grit and tobacco that rot the fabric. Of course, the other great hole makers are moths and these must be avoided by the removal of all stains and spots of grease which attract them and encourage them to feed. Constant brushing and plenty of fresh air are the great enemies of moths and will put them to rout every time.

Some people find difficulty in removing stains, and therefore, a few hints as to the proper antidotes may not come amiss.

Perhaps the most common stain of all is that of ink. Here I would advise that the spot be soaked in strong salt water and rinsed in a solution of ammonia. The salt changes the nitrate of silver in the ink into chloride, and this is naturally dissolved by the ammonia. Ammonia will also remove indelible pencil, and, if followed by a wash of solution of soda, will also take out all grass stains.

Oil and grease should be treated with benzine covered with Fuller's earth or powdered chalk and left in the sun for a few hours.

For rust I recommend lemon juice and salt or oxalic acid. This last, however, requires great care, for if not properly used it injures the fabric. Tar should be softened with glycerin, anointed with benzine, and then washed in soda water and ammonia.

As regards cleaning, the dry process is best, for water should not be used on woollens. Moreover, great attention must be paid to the pressing. If the iron is too hot all the life will be taken out of the fabric.

It will not be necessary to press trousers with great vigor, if only they are given a little care and attention when they are removed from the body. They should be brushed and then hung on a trouser hanger, or, if this is not available, over a tall chair with the body toward the ground.

Introduction "Jammed"

Gregory Mason writes in the American Mercury:

Every itinerant chautauqua spouter plays nightly for the delectation of all committee chairmen and professional introducers. There are a few who know how to combine felicity with brevity, but they are as rare as Bapists who prefer Beethoven to Irving Berlin.

Painfully common are such bunglers as the chautauqua superintendent who introduced me in place of Col. John Temple Graves.

"Folks," he drawled, "we were to have heard the message tonight of Col. John Temple Graves, a man who, while a dwarf physically, is a giant intellectually. But there has been a last minute change and we are to have the pleasure of hearing Doctor Mason, a man who is a giant physically and . . . and . . . and."

Some one tittered and I laughed. The superintendent waved at me, muttered something incoherent, and fled.

Rewriting the Bible

The most wonderful manuscript Bible in the world is owned by a Mr. Russell of Montreal. With infinite patience he carried out this great work with his own hand.

Mr. Russell, who is a Presbyterian, said that his main object in attempting such a task was to leave some unforgettable and tangible memorial of himself for his family.

The work, which is wonderfully done in a style of half writing and half printing, was performed at odd moments of spare time, and took 22 years to complete!

The New Testament takes up 471 pages, with double columns on each page, and was written without a single error or omission. In all, there are 1,887 pages.

Foreign Fauna Study

A traveling scholarship for the study of the fauna of foreign countries was announced by the Smithsonian Institution, which will devote the interest from a bequest of $50,000 to the project. The fund was given to the institution by the late Mrs. Virginia Purdy Bacon of New York. Those awarded the scholarship, which will rotate every two years, will receive $2,500 a year—Scientific American.

Council of Red Men on May 31

The quarterly meeting of the Hudson Valley Red Men's Council will be held in Masonic Hall, corner of Main and West streets at Warwick, N. Y., on Saturday afternoon, May 31, at 2:30 o'clock daylight saving time. An open air adoption will be held, the degree work being put on by the famous degree team of Chattanooga Tribe of New York city. This degree team is going all over the country taking all the prizes for the working of this degree. Candidates from the tribes throughout the district will be taken to Warwick on that day and have the degree conferred upon them by the famous team in full form. In the afternoon the work will be held indoors.

At 6 o'clock a banquet will be served by the members of Misty Tribe. Daughters of Pocahontas and all reservations for this dinner must be made by May 22 to Bro. F. L. Smith, 12 Howe street, Warwick. Following the banquet a short street parade will be held headed by Franklin band of 22 pieces of Walden.

The Great Senior Sagamore of the Great Council of New York, Peter P. Printy, will deliver an address. The tribe is arranging a big program for the entertainment of the Red Men on that day and all the members are requested to turn out as delegates as possible. A large delegation from the two tribes in Kingston will attend.

Warwick is 28 miles from Newburgh and the roads leading there are in good order. There are several ways in which the trip may be made and the committee in charge has sent to each tribe in the district a list of routes which may be taken.

Perfect Wood Is Needed for Airplane Propellers

The propellers of airplanes must possess extraordinary strength, for their speed tends to disrupt them. In a test run, with the propellers made of wood, which had been dried to the lowest possible moisture content, or "bone dry," the ends of the blades actually cracked apart, forced out by the centrifugal action.

Some air machine engines run at 1,700 revolutions a minute. An engine of that power should use a nine-foot six-inch propeller, and the speed of the blade ends would be in the neighborhood of six hundred miles an hour.

A good many thousands of pounds of pressure per square inch are generated by such speed, and propellers have been known to split at the center and fly apart. Even the smallest lack of balance between the two blades is a very serious matter, since the pull of one must counterbalance that of the other. In addition, there is the gyroscopic force that tends to keep the blades rotating in the same plane, a force that is not easily overcome when the airplane is moving at high speed. The cross-strain that it introduces when there is a change of direction, either up or down or sideways, is enormous. Yet in conditions of modern warfare, where the aviator must "loop the loop," or plunge, or second sharply in maneuver, the machine must meet and withstand these severe tests.

Wood for airplane manufacture must be 100 per cent. The safety of the aviator depends upon there not being a single flaw.

Luck That Changed

An insurance agent found a quarter on his doorstep, his wife picked up half a dollar and his daughter rushed in announcing the discovery of a dime. At supper their toast was "May our good luck continue," and then the father found that, owing to a hole in his pocket, he had lost about a dollar. —London Tit-Bits.

To Resist Higher Telephone Rates

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., May 9.—Plans for fighting further increases in telephone rates will be discussed at a conference of corporation counsels of up-state cities with Attorney General Carl Sherman here on May 15. Sherman said today that if the telephone company's new theory of valuation should be accepted by the federal courts there would be an automatic increase of over thirty per cent in the rates up-state and even a greater increase in New York city.

Under a recent decision in the federal courts, the telephone company was permitted to increase the rates ten per cent in New York city, pending the litigation. "I intend to do everything I can to block further increases in telephone rates and will use all the forces at my command to do so," Attorney General Sherman said. "I hope to have the cooperation of the corporation counsels from the up-state cities in this fight."

Molly Pitcher

Molly Pitcher, a famous heroine of the Revolutionary war, and so nicknamed because she carried water in a pitcher to soldiers in battle, was born on October 13, 1744, in Carlisle, Pa., her maiden name being Mary Ludwig. Her first husband was John Hayes, an artilleryman in the American army. While besieged in Fort Mifflin, along with her husband, in October, 1777, she is said to have discharged the last gun against the British when the enemy began to scale the walls and her husband had fled. Molly's fame rests upon her brave conduct in the battle of Monmouth, in June, 1778. As she was carrying water to her husband from a neighboring well a bullet killed him instantly. She at once took his place at the gun and saved it from falling into the hands of the enemy. After the battle General Greene presented her to Washington, who made her sergeant for her bravery and placed her on the list of half-pay officers for life. She died at her home in Carlisle on January 22, 1823. A monument on the Monmouth battlefield, and one at Carlisle, commemorates her heroic deeds.

Cost Him $500 an Hour

Sarah Todd, wife of the original John Jacob Astor, was a Brevoort and the founder of the Astor family frequently said she was such a fine business woman he was compelled to consult her on important projects. She was, indeed, so good that she charged him $500 an hour for consultation, which he paid, and she invested it for the benefit of her children.

John Brevoort was the first goldsmith of New Amsterdam. His creations still are considered works of art. Some of the Brevoorts were ironmongers. Charlotte Brevoort was a social leader and married Mayor Whitehead Hicks.

Henry Brevoort was a friend of Sir Walter Scott and Washington Irving. James Carson, historian, was of the family. They were generous patrons of literature and art and founded the artistic group which still clusters about Washington square. —Detroit News.

Knew a Good Thing

Willie gave the beggar a quarter and started to pass on. Instead, he stopped for a moment. "Don't you get tired of begging for a living?" he asked. "Well, yes I do," the beggar confessed. "But how else is a fellow going to live?" "Why don't you quit begging and go to work?" Willie inquired. "I tried that once," the beggar confessed, "but, you know, work is so uncertain."

New Treatment For Pneumonia

Even Skeptical Doctors Admit Mortality Will Be Decreased 25 Per Cent by Dr. Felton's Discovery.

Discovery of a new treatment for pneumonia which holds out the definite hope of accomplishing a radical reduction in the death rate of this dread disease, so often a sequel to influenza, was announced today by the Influenza Commission of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Dr. Lloyd D. Felton working in the department of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene of the Harvard Medical School has found a method of precipitating and concentrating the antibodies in antipneumococcus serum. The concentrated antibody solution has been used with encouraging results in about sixty cases at the Boston City Hospital and in about sixty more in hospitals in New York and Brooklyn.

Dr. Felton read a paper before the New England Health Institute here this morning making public the methods and essential facts.

Dr. Felton's studies have dealt with the virulence of pneumococci, the pneumonia germs. He has sought to isolate the protective element in the serum taken from a horse immunized against pneumococci. The serum itself is weak and produces violent reactions in the form of chills, serum sickness, rashes, etc., which have radically diminished its value for the use of private practitioners.

While making studies with carbon dioxide precipitant, Dr. Felton observed that a very heavy precipitate was formed in the serum when diluted in plain water. Convinced that the white fluffy substance produced, carried with it the protective element of the serum and left behind the harmful substances, he tested it out with mice.

He injected millions of virulent pneumococci into each of a group of mice. After six hours he injected the new serum into some of the mice, while he allowed the disease to run its course with the others, called the "controls." At the end of thirty-six hours the controls had died of pneumonia. The mice protected by the serum recovered.

After further refinements of the serum, Dr. Felton distributed his produce to a group of clinicians in hospitals in Boston, New York and Brooklyn to be used for the benefit of those suffering from pneumonia. The encouraging results include the fact that the serum sickness and other harmful reactions have been practically eliminated.

The injections in human treatment are made intravenously that is, into the veins. Subcutaneous injections, those made under the skin, tried recently by scientists in the hope of escaping the harmful reactions of the old serum, were found to have little protective power.

Dr. Felton's preliminary tests with other than Type 1 pneumonia indicate that it will not be difficult to have the same success with the other types of lobar pneumonia.

Added importance is given to the work by the probability that the isolation of the protective substance in pneumonia serum has brought to light a general law concerning the action of protective antibodies. "In addition to pneumococci, as a matter of control," Dr. Felton states in his paper, "it has been found possible to isolate the protective substance in immune sera developed by other micro-organisms. There are indications that the protective antibody of the pneumococcus is one of many which act in a similar fashion, and its behavior represents a general law for certain groups of bacteria."

Dr. Felton's paper was prepared several weeks ago. Since then his labors in the laboratories at Harvard have been unremitting and he states he has carried his investigations beyond the point reached in the published paper. His recent experiments have had to do with the types of pneumonia other than Type 1.

The value of the discovery to mankind cannot yet be measured. None of the scientists has sufficient data yet to make more than an estimate and yet the most skeptical of those familiar with Dr. Felton's work admit that at least a twenty-five per cent and possibly a 50 per cent reduction in pneumonia mortality is assured.

The supreme simplicity of the discovery of the precipitation of the serum in water gives the layman a false impression as to the duration and character of the work leading up to the discovery and essential before it could be made. The discovery was in no sense a lucky accident. Even the apparatus required for the work is of extraordinary intricacy and required lengthy studies and experimentation to develop.

"Even if the serum has no increased potency by the concentration, the fact that serum sickness has been eliminated revolutionizes the treatment of pneumonia," one physician pointed out. "General practitioners had practically given up the use of pneumonia serum because of the insurmountable difficulties. This will put it back into common practice."

The discovery is in many ways a parallel to the concentration and refinement of diphtheria antitoxin. It is predicted that the great strides made in the prevention and cure of diphtheria will be duplicated to a considerable extent during the next decade in the fight on pneumonia.

Over 90,000 persons die of pneumonia in the United States every year. If the death rate can be reduced one-half, as is freely predicted as a result of Dr. Felton's discovery, it will mean the saving of 45,000 lives in a year in this country alone.

Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, professor of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene at Harvard Medical School and chairman of the commission said: "I believe a distinct advance has been made in the treatment of pneumonia. The antibody solution has potent power in preventing and even curing pneumococcal infection in susceptible animals. It is beneficial in lobar pneumonia of man. Before the final word can be said concerning the usefulness and also

Short and Sweet
The talk had turned on the subject of theatrical first nights and speeches at the fall of the curtain.

"I have had four plays produced," a playwright exclaimed, "and when I say authors should not make speeches, I know what I am talking about. But if you must speak, let your speech be as short as possible. I only once made a speech during those four unforgettable occasions, and it contained four words."

"What were they?" he was asked.
"And boo to you," he replied.

To Study Sound Waves
Experiments on the propagation of sound, involving the use of large quantities of high explosives, are to be carried on in May by the French government. Three gigantic explosions, each of them using about ten tons of explosives, will be set off at Camp de France in the center of France. The exact time will be noted, and numerous seismographs, and other forms of registering apparatus throughout France will record the direction, intensity and character of the sound.

Veto for Tax Reduction Bill

This Becomes Apparent as Democrats Tack All Manner of Amendments To It and Kill Mellon Plan Entirely.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 9.—The new tax reduction bill, rewritten by a Democratic-insurgent coalition, faced increased prospects of a presidential veto today as it neared final enactment in the senate.

Supported by the insurgent group, Democratic leaders wrote into the new revenue measure nearly all their own tax theories while recommendations of Secretary of Treasury Mellon were abandoned with studied regularity. The regular Republican leaders were confronted with so one-sided a battle for administration tax policies that Senator Smoot, of Utah, majority finance chieftain, finally served notice he would no longer oppose minority amendments to the bill.

Smoot's action was taken as a complete surrender on the part of administration leaders to the will of the Democratic-insurgent coalition, and as a new indication that President Coolidge plans to veto the measure.

As a result of Smoot's decision, the measure was deluged with amendments which have met with condemnation from Secretary Mellon.

The bill probably will pass the senate tonight or tomorrow, going then to conference for adjustment of rates which differ from the house (Longworth compromise bill). It probably will not reach the White House for two weeks and the president, reports, said, probably will send it back to congress with a veto and a recommendation for the immediate enactment of a bill slashing 25 per cent from all 1923 income taxes.

A score of Democratic tax proposals have been written into the bill, to date. These include the Simons plan for normal and surtaxes, the Jones corporation taxes, the Walsh gift and inheritance taxes and the McKellar proposal making public all tax returns.

Carless Driver
The dear old lady went up to the taxicab driver and told him to drive her to the British museum.

"Right-o, mum," replied the man. "Jump in."

But the old lady stood her ground. "Not until you've started the engine," she said.

The driver got down from his seat and started the engine with half a turn of the crank.

Proceeding up a steep hill, the engine suddenly slacked off and then stopped dead.

The old lady put her head out of the window and with a knowing smile, said to the driver:

"Ah, driver, I thought you didn't wind it up enough!"—London Answers

ESSAY CONTEST IS NOW IN PROGRESS

The third annual essay contest of the American Legion began April 1 with the chosen subject, "Why Communism is a Menace to Americanism." This contest, conducted by the American commission of the Legion, is held annually with a view of enlisting a majority of thought in the direction of some vital question facing America's citizenship.

Heretofore the contest has closed in the fall, but in order to coincide the work with that of the school year Garland W. Powell, director of the Legion's Americanism commission, decided to open the contest in the spring and close it with the completion of school terms.

According to Mr. Powell, 300,000 school children participated in the last contest held by the Legion, which took as its subject, "Why America Should Prohibit Immigration for Five Years." A previous contest conducted by the Legion enlisted efforts of 200,000 children, who submitted essays on the subject "How the American Legion Can Best Serve the Nation."

The steamer Homer Ramsdell will leave Ferry street landing at 6:45 a. m., daylight saving time, landing at Poughkeepsie and Newburgh, and arrive in New York before noon. About five hours will be given excursionists to visit points of interest or friends in the city or neighboring places, as the steamer will not leave for return until 4:30 p. m., from Franklin street pier, and 5:15 o'clock from 129th street. The boat is steam heated and excursionists will experience no inconveniences should the weather be cold or stormy.

Operates Itself

Operating without human control, halting while minor difficulties are adjusted, and stopping altogether if something goes seriously wrong, a new electric power station at Searsburg, Vt., embodies astonishing mechanical intelligence, says Popular Science Monthly.

The turbine of the plant drives a generator with a capacity of 6,800 horsepower. The only help from human beings is occasional inspection, lubrication and regulation of the governor mechanism. The turbine starts when sufficient water arrives, and shuts down when the flow falls below an efficient limit.

Fifth Reel

A friend who had been reading about a well-known director's divorce case, thinking to set himself in strong with the director, ventured to say some uncomplimentary things about the wife, whereon, to his surprise, the director replied: "Man, she's an angel."

"But," stammered the friend, "I thought—"

"She's an angel," continued the director, "because she was always up in the air, she was always harping and she never had anything to wear."

Discovers Odd Fish on Trip to Northern Brazil

A vulture that barks like a dog, a flat fish something like the plaice but equipped with a nasty poison spike, and vampire bats galore, are among the attractions reported by Capt. S. C. Bullock M. C. in a paper which he recently read before the Royal Geographical society in London, as having been encountered in his expedition last year to the Tocantins and Araguaia river regions of northern Brazil.

One of the members of the expedition, which traveled in a 28-foot steam yacht taken out from England, was bitten by one of the vampire bats and difficulty was experienced in stopping the bleeding. The bat is said to frequently attack humans and animals and is found in considerable numbers in the region.

The arara, as the flat plaice-like fish is called, lives in still waters and anyone bathing or walking in the water is very apt to have a foot pierced by the sharp spike with which it is equipped. The tail of the fish averages about six inches in length, and half-way along this tail is the spike, which contains a kind of poison. Natives of the district were ready with tales of many having died from the poisoned wound of an arara. The fish raises the spike perpendicularly when he senses danger.

"At one camp in this district," said Captain Bullock, "a large bird, quite new to us, was encountered, like a vulture, having five talons on each foot and one talon or spike on the middle joint of the wings, which measure nearly six feet from tip to tip. The bird is black, except for the breast and under side of the wings."

"Locally it is called 'tuma' and it makes a noise very much like a dog barking. It is generally found near a lake and when frightened it takes refuge in a tree."

Captain Bullock told of an incident at one place where some waterhogs were encountered at a lagoon a short distance in from the river. Two of them were shot and one fell into the water. The water was too shallow to cover the animal and before the party could get to it the piranha fish began to eat it, jumping right out of the water and onto the waterhog's back in their haste to do so. Northern Brazil abounds in curious birds, beasts and fish, according to Captain Bullock.

A Marked Man

The custom of some hospital doctors who are treating patients suffering from heart or chest complaints of putting a blue pencil mark round the part affected, so that the condition can easily be examined day by day, sometimes leads to comedy.

One man so marked died the night following. A new patient was admitted to his bed, and the same blue-pencil process was repeated.

After the doctor had gone the neighbor of the new man turned to him and said, mournfully: "Your number's up all right."

"What do you mean?" said the patient.

"Well," continued his neighbor, "they always put a blue pencil mark round a chap what's going to die."

In a moment the new patient was out of bed, had seized his clothes from his locker and had left the hospital. As his condition was not serious, his dash led to no ill effects.

Unfortunate Man!

It used not to be common for Englishmen who have trouble with their "itches" to own costly mansions, but the war has changed all that along with much else—which makes the following story credible:

Two Americans met at a London garden party. Said the first: "To look at that Englishman you'd think he was a tramp, wouldn't you?"

"Well, I know for a fact that he hasn't a place he can call home," replied the second dryly.

"Nonsense! Why, his mansion in London is—"

"Sumptuous, you were going to say. Yes, but he calls it 'ome.'—Youth's Companion.

Capitalizing a Misfortune

A clerk in a retail clothing store stayed out so late at night that he felt compelled to snatch naps during store hours.

Being a relative of a member of the firm was all that saved him from being fired.

The manager, becoming exasperated, enlisted the aid of one of his assistants. The next day the lethargic clerk found himself in the pajama department. On the counter before him was a sign which read:

"Our pajamas are of such superior quality that even the man who sells them can't keep awake."—Printers' Ink Monthly.

Bow-Legged Ones

A Lanarkshire coal miner, hearing a chum say he was going to Glasgow, asked him to bring back a pair of stockings. The friend accordingly called at a hostler's to make the purchase, but, although shown every kind and variety of stocking, declared all unsuitable. The anxious shopman assured him that he had seen every variety that was made and could not see why some of them would not suit, whereupon the miner replied: "What I want is a pair of bow-legged ones."

Both Ways

"Crimson Gulch hasn't parking space enough to accommodate the automobiles that come to town."

"No, sir," answered Cactus Joe. "This here is a growing community with expenses to meet. If we can't catch a driver for speedin' we get it fur standin' still."—Washington Star.

Quits Crap-Shooting Wife

Declaring that his wife shot craps and lost all his earnings, C. C. Layman of Los Angeles, Cal., applied for a divorce. The wife admitted the charge, and the divorce was granted.

Lewis Wins a Hollow Victory

After He Is Knocked Out For Dirty Wrestling He Is Awarded Bout From Polish Star.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Boston, May 9.—Strangler Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, received the award over Stanley Stasiak, Polish champion, on a foul when the latter knocked out Lewis during the course of the contest with a blow on the jaw. Lewis declared himself unable to continue and Referee Sam Avery of St. Joseph, Mo., awarded the champion the match. Stasiak became enraged when Lewis violated rules of wrestling by applying various strangle holds. The champion was warned several times by Referee Avery. When Lewis again tried to apply the illegal holds, the Polish champion sent a blow to Lewis's jaw. The latter dropped to the canvas.

WEST PRIMED TO WIN KENTUCKY DERBY

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, May 9.—Eastern breeders were disposed today to concede a victory to the west in the Kentucky Derby, following the announcement that St. James, the reigning favorite, had gone lame in a workout and would not start in the Churchill Downs classic. The accident followed closely on the heels of the withdrawal of Saracen, winter hook favorite, and removed from consideration the East's two leading colts.

Harry Sinclair's Mad Play, which will start in both preakness and Derby, has been installed as the main hope of this section at Louisville.

Each Saturday he has pictures taken of the oarsmen in action. Then he places the pictures on the bulletin board in the clubhouse and points out errors and how to correct them.

DISADVANTAGES OF LIGHTER GOLF BALL

Hagen Says Aspect of Game Would Be Changed.

Any change made in the present standard weight of the golf ball to make it lighter and larger will eventually mean the further expenditure of millions in the changing of golf courses, clubs and the general layout of links, and would play havoc with the form of most golfers, in the opinion of Walter Hagen, famous golfer.

Hagen maintains that the entire aspect of the game would be changed if the proposed plan now said to be considered by the United States Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Association of Scotland is carried out. "For the golfer able to make a drive of from 175 to 200 yards from the tee, the change to a lighter and larger ball will shorten his flight to such an extent that his shot would land at the first hazard, failing to clear it, while under present conditions the drive would clear the obstacle.

"The game's greatest thrill would be taken away with the adoption of a lighter and larger ball," went on Hagen. "Every ordinary golfer gets a tremendous 'kick' out of driving the ball perhaps 175 or more yards from the tee and he is ever looking forward to be able to do just that thing."

Hagen went on to say that with the standardization of a new ball, every course in the country would eventually be affected by the ruling. He said his plans for the establishment of his new 36-hole course would have to be changed if the "master minds" in control of the game would throw out the ball now in present use.

"Golf will be less sportive with a larger and lighter ball thrown into the game," declared the famous star, "and I do not believe that the real devotees wish a change at this time."

Trying for Olympics

Ralph Hills, junior at Princeton university, stands out as a logical candidate for the shotput squad of the Olympic team this summer. A big boy, he is the type of American youngster who will carry Uncle Sam's colors with honors this year.

Diamond Notes

There were 824 stolen bases in the National league last year to 741 in the American league.

Willie Keeler's record for hitting safely in 44 consecutive games (in the season of 1897) still stands.

Jess Winters, pitcher, has been sold by the Phillies to the Portland team of the Pacific Coast league.

James Sullivan, pitcher, has been returned by the Cleveland Indians to the Decatur club of the Three-I league.

Carson-Newman college, Tennessee, has one basketball player of exceptionally high standing—seven feet two in his stocking feet.

The Cincinnati Reds were the first professional team. They made their famous tour in 1890. They played 69 games without a defeat.

Deacon Scott is hopping around like a two-year-old this gay young spring. He is snarling grounders in all directions and batting better than ever before.

The Reds seem to take kindly to their new manager, Jack Hendricks. All the athletes are pulling for him, a condition that never yet hurt the standing of a club in the league averages.

Despite the fact that Clarence Rowland is doing very well at the umpiring game, it is said he still yearns for a managerial berth. Rowlands likes the spotlight, and the umpire gets very little of it.

The Poor Cockroach

A naturalist declares that a cockroach has 2957 teeth. As the odd one has no corresponding tooth to meet it, it is not surprising that these poor little creatures suffer so much from indigestion.—Boy's Life.

Do you fear your cook will quit? No use grieving—not a bit—

USE A WANT-AD

Middletown Vs. K. H. S. Saturday

Saturday afternoon the Kingston High School baseball team will have a chance to alter its standing in the Duso League, when they meet Middletown at the local Fair Grounds at 2:30 o'clock. The local boys are determined to win and as things look now they stand a fair show. Middletown is probably thinking that the local team is under par since it has already been defeated twice. But they will be surprised. The locals have been working hard and Coach Perry hopes to come through this time.

Captain "Dick" Whiston will be unable to play Saturday on account of the hit in the head which he got at the Poughkeepsie game. Vost will catch and McLane will go to first. The rest of the lineup will be the same; Hauser, 2b.; Hoffman, ss.; Messinger, 3b.; Schmidt, cf.; Giamerle, cf.; Howard, lf. Both Lawrence and Knight are in good shape for the game. Lawrence will probably start the game.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Walter Johnson, so far forgot himself as to walk three and hit two, and in consequence, the Red Sox pulled out a 4 to 2 verdict over the Senators. Collins's triple in the first with two on also proved of intrinsic value to the Sox. Ehman permitted only five hits.

Sisler had little to do with the fact that the Browns beat the Indians, 4 to 1, except that he hit a single and homer, stole a base and accepted fifteen chances. George's activities accounted for three runs in all. Winard, a college recruit, turned the Indians back with six hits. Rain and wet grounds put a damper on the rest of the major league programs.

Many Entries.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, May 9.—A total of 257 "jumpers" have been nominated for the four steeple chase stakes to be decided at the Saratoga Springs race meeting in August. It was made known today. This exceeds the entries for the same events last year by sixty-three.

"Churchyard" Is Older

Both the word cemetery and the word churchyard have been used for many centuries in England. The word cemetery was originally applied to the catacombs in Rome. It is found as early as 1397 in England. The word churchyard, on the other hand, appears in the old English chronicles at about the year 1134.
